Several ships are safely here arrived from Dublin.

Lyme, Feb. 19. The 17th Instant arrived here the Margaret of this place, in three days from St. Malos, laden with Canvas; the Master and People aboard her confirm the arrival of the New-Spain Fleet at St. Lucars; and, that several French men of Warr are fitted up at Brest, the Souldiers Raised, and Seamen Press'd, and ready to be sent on Board those Ships designed for Madagascar and the East-Indies.

Cadix, Jan. 25. We have this certain account of the proceeding of Sir Thomas Allen with the Fleet under his Command; that on the 31st past he endured a great storm, but without any other damage than the splitting of some sails, and the 1st instant the wind being abated found all his Company even beyond expectation in view; the next day he plyed to the Westwards to meet and secure the Herring-Fleet. The 3^d instant fetch up a French Tartan coming from Carthagena, who informed him of 47 Turks and Moors, which were there remaining out of above 200. whose ship had been forced on shore by some of Sir Thomas Allens Squadron the 14th past off Cape Palos. The 6th instant at night plying still to the Westward, he found the Herring Fleet, and with them Captain Holmes, with whom he joynd also the Portland to secure their passage to Legorn: the 11th instant being by Easterly winds driven into Malaga Road, he took care for the disposal of two prizes which were formerly put in there, and finding there several Fish ships and one other extraordinary rich Merchant ship, he ordered the Milford and Pearl to conduct them thence to Alicant; the 12th he sailed from that Road, and met with the Mary, Bristol, Forefight and Spread-Eagle with a Convoy of 15 Merchants from Malaga: the 13th instant he past the Streights with many Merchants under his protection; and the next day came to an Anchor in this Bay, where he spent some days in taking in fresh provisions; the 19th instant he went out of this Bay, and the 21st having convoyed a Fleet of 30 Merchants as far as Cape St Marys, committed them to the protection of the Milford.

Most of the Dieties are ended with approbation of the Marriage, that of Sendomire is broken off by the peevishness of two or three persons only, who protested against the proceedings of the rest, but those States have sent to desire His Majesties Letters to empower them to meet the second time.
