ARMY DEPARTMENT

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to approve of the name shown below as having received an expression of Commendation:

24010014 Signalman (acting Lance Corporal) Joseph Alan SPENCE, Royal Corps of Signals.

On 27th March 1968, Lance Corporal Spence was driving a Volkswagen with Lieutenant and Mrs. Simmons of the same unit as passengers along Schonebergerstrasse in West Berlin.

As the vehicle crossed the Schoneberger Bridge, a German youth was seen entering the Landwehrkanal from the Bridge and disappeared from sight in the Canal.

On investigation, it was found that this young man was trying to support another unconscious youth in the strong current, and desperately attempting to grip the Canal's vertical wall.

Lieutenant Simmons, secured to Lance Corporal Spence, attempted to reach the German, but this proved impossible, and immediately Lance Corporal Spence dived into the Canal and swam against the current completely supporting the unconscious youth and pushing the other to the side of the Canal, holding them until Lieutenant Simmons was able to get hold of them.

Lieutenant Simmons and Lance Corporal Spence managed to get the unconscious youth on to a narrow high water ledge where Lieutenant Simmons rendered artificial respiration.

Lance Corporal Spence remained in the water giving assistance to the other German and there he stayed until the two Germans were out of danger.

The prompt action by Lance Corporal Spence, with complete disregard for his own safety, undoubtedly saved the life of one German youth, and but for his action the life of the other youth might also have been in danger.
