The Gentry of that Province have already raifed four thousand Men for the carrying on this Enterpozes to them the Prince of Avelliso hah added five hundred Men, and the Duke of Mon teleone some other Forces of the Militia. A Squadron of English and Durch Men of War is appointed for the Convoy of the Forces, to be employed in the Descent; and there are already embarked fix thousand Foot on our Tartance, and other Transports, which are ordered to fail tewards the Coast of Sicily. It is reported that all the necessary Measures for the Siccess of this Enterprize have been concerted with some Grandezs of that Island. The late Commotions in Messina and Palerme, and the Uncasiness which is observed in several other Parts of that Kingdom, animate our Forces, and (it is heped) will contribute very much to the Reduction of icto his Catholick Majesty. The General Officers have prepared their Equipages, and are ready to set out for the Expedition. We hear that the King hath fent an Order for an Alteration of for e of his Ministers in this Kingdom; but it is not particularly known what Changes will be made in the Administration. Bruffeli, September 21. N. S. The last Letters from Paris advise, that they had received divers Expresses, with Accounts of the Motions of the Armies in Flanders, fince the Surrender of the Cittadel of Tournay. On the 9th Instant Mareschal Villars wrote to the King, that he had posted his Army so advantageously, that the Allies could not, without the greatest Difficulties, undertake the Siege of Mons; that the Confederates having informed themfelves of the Situation of his Army, were advanced for near him, that he could not retire without opening a very commodious Passage to the Allies, and that a Retreat would as much discourage his Troops, as the Loss of a Battel; withal adding, that his Camp, of which he waspossessed was the strongest in all Flanders; and that he doubted not but to render it yet more advantageous, by casting up Retrenchments, and felling Trees for Barricadoes, before the Allies were joined by their Forces from Tournay, till which time he did not suppose they would give him Bar. tel. On the 10th a Night, that General dispatched another Express to his Majesty, with Advice, that a Battel was inevitable, of which he doubted not but to give his Majesty a fatisfactory Account. Since which, several Couriers have passed from the Army in Finders to Verfailles, to acquaint the King with the Evertot the late Battel near the Woods of Biagnies, Sart and Janfart. These Advices said, that the French Troops behaved themselves with great Gillantry in that Action, being animated by the Examples of the Marcfchals Boufflers and Villars; that the Confederates were repulled by their Right Wing two or three times; but rallied again, and continued the Fight with fo much Obstinacy, that Mareschal Boufflers (who gave the necessary Instructions to the Army after Mareschal Villars was wounded) thought fit to retire to-wards Maubeuge, Bavay and Queinoy. These Letters add, that the Number of the poor People in Parisencreafing every Day, for want of Provision and Quarters for them in the Hospitals of that Ci y, the King hath ordered a Proclamation to be published, enjoying the principal Burgeffes of every Parish to make a Monthly Collection for the Subiffance of the Poor, from the first of October next: These Burgesses are to go from House to House, and take a Register or the Names or every Housekeeper within their respective l'arishee; and to keep on exact Account of what is contributed to this Charity by every private Person; that it any resuse to give, or connegive according to their Ability, a Tax may be particularly imposed upon them.
