Falmouth, April 13.

THe 8th instant put in here the Dauphin of Dunkirk from Martinego and Guiny, laden mostly with Sugars and Elephants Teeth, but thought to have quantities of richer commodities on board her: yesterday she failed hence homeward's bound.

The people on board her report, that a Dutch Merchant ship returning from the coasts of Guiny, laden with Negroes and Horses, intending to Trade upon the Island of Martinego, by vertue of a French Commission, was seized on and made prize by three French men of war, whose Captains examined the said Commission, but it seems, found it not according to due form.

Yesterday arrived here the John of Topsham from Virginia, laden with Tobacco, bound for Holland. Also two ships from Plymouth, one of them bound for Guiny; the other for New England.

Hull, April 16. This week failed hence four vessels of this place laden with Lead, Cloth, and Rapeseed, bound for Rotterdam. One Billander for Ossend, and Three other vessels of Norway, all of them freighted with the Commodities of those parts; in their room are arrived Three ships from Norway laden with Deals; one from the East Countrey with Flax; and Three from Holland with several sorts of the Merchandises, of those Countreys.

Madrid, April 2. The Count de Aranda who was sometime imprisoned upon suspicion of being a principal actor in a Conspiracy against the life of Don Juan is lately escaped out of Prison, and as is furnished by the Princes Connivences, being unwilling to proceed against him with that severity which the Laws would have required, had the Fact been openly proved against him. The Prince has written lately to the Queen to inform her of the whole business, giving her an Account of what other persons were suspected to have been abettors in the same design, leaving the farther Examination and procedure wholly to her Majesty.

The Archbishop of Tholouse Extraordinary Ambassador from his most Christian Majesty, made his Entry, and had afterwards his Audience the 29th past with extraordinary Magnificency, attended by the Count del Real, Major Domo to his Majesty with a Gentleman of his Chamber, and Don Manuel de Lira, and several other Officers of his Catholick Majesties Household.

The Queen Regent has been pleased to dispose of the Command of Alcantara, vacant by the death of the Marquis d' Aytona, to the Marchioness d' Aytona his Widow for the use of her Son. The Duke de Pastrano is preferred to his other vacancy of her Major Domo.

Venice, April 12. Some Vessels lately arriving here from Zante tells us, that the Visier having lately received several Letters and dispatches from the Ottoman Court, and finding the Grand Sequior his Matter more earnestly than ever, desiring his presence, to take his advice in several points of greatest importance, is resolved to put the affairs of Candia into such a method, that his absence may be dispensed with for some time, but tis not believed he will embark till about the end of May or the beginning of June.

From Croatia we have confirmed the news of a defeat given by the Governour of Carlestadt to the Marquis Frangipani, a principal person, and Actor in the late disturbances of those parts, who had put himself at the head of a great body of the Countrey people whom he had drawn together and furnished with Arms. They farther affirm, that the Hungarians however disoblged by the Imperialists, maintain not any good correspondency, at least publickly with the Turks, since upon intelligence given them, that a considerable body of the Ottoman forces were upon the frontiers, marching towards them upon pretence of assisting them; the Hungarians immediately drew together a strong body of men, and defeated them, forcing them in much disorder to retire themselves within their own bounds.

This last week went hence for Vienna divers Officers and Commanders of the German forces, sometime employed in the service of this Republick, and particularly, amongst others, the Counts di Caprara and di Portia, and many other Officers who returned lately without employments from Candia; Count Portia has given Order for entertaining in the Emperors service such Engineers and Miners as were known to have been employed during the siege of Candia in the defence of that place.

The Emperor has by his late Letters recalled hence his Secretary and President here, the Abbot Federici, who on Wednesday last took his leave at the Colledge, and the same day departed hence intending to return by post.

On Tuesday next the Gally, on which are embarked the new Presents designed for the Ottoman Court, in the place of those which were unhappily cast away, is ordered to put out to sea.

Our Captain General Morosini has not yet taken his place either in the Colledge or Senate; the Prince and Senate having designed him the extraordinary honour and dignity of a supernumerary Procurator, in acknowledgement of his great merits, and the signal services which he has done the publick, which will be solemnly conferred on him the 22 of this month.

The Prince of Brunswick has already sent away his Train, and intends in few days to leave this place and return homewards.

The Duke of Nevers is lately arrived here from Rome on his way for France.

From Dalmatia we are told, that the Turkish Envoye employed to Zara, is returned again with much satisfaction, having adjousted all differences, especially those relating to the reprisals made by the Morlachs, and has professed that care shall be taken that nothing shall be offered on their part which shall tend to the disturbance of the peace.

Vienna, April 12. The Count de Tattenbuch lately seized on in Stiria a principal instrument in the late disturbances in Hungary, has upon examination, made confession of all he knew touching the intentions of the Count Serini, with such circumstances as gives little reason to doubt of the truth of what he has declared.

Father Farsfel the Count Serini's Confessor is departed hence well satisfied with the Emperors intentions, resolving to sollicite the Count to submit himself to the Emperors discretion.

The Imperial forces have seized on all the passages into Hungary, Stiria, Croatia, and other adjacent Provinces to hinder the Turks from marching into those Countreys if they should have any intentions to encourage or assist them.
