Rriffels, March 5. N. S. Count Maldeghem has received his Commission to be Colonel of a new Regiment of Foot, which is to be maintained by the States of Brabant, and so much diligence will be used in raising it, that we doubt not but it will be compleat in a short time. Some Advices from Paris say, that the late Elector of Bavaria was expected at the French Court, and that after a short stay there he would go to Namur. The French continue to give out, that that Prince will Command a Body of twenty or twenty sive thousand Men, between the Sambre and the Meuse; and to that end he and his Brother use their utmoss Care to put their own Troops in a condition to make the Campaign; and we are told, that the Mare-chal de Montrevel is appointed to ferve under the late Elector. The Mareschal de Villars arrived at Arrasthe 23d of last Month in the Afternoon, where he review'd the Garrison, and visited the Works. It was expected that he would have gone on to visit the other Frontier Towns on that side; but a Courier from Court brought Orders to him to repair thither without delay; and he has given the King an account of the condition in which he found Hesdin, Montrevil, and other Places in that part of the Country. The Chevalier de Luxemburg arriv'd the 3d at Valenciennes. It was immediately said that he had some Secret Design in view, and that he might probably en-deavour to surprise St. Amand or Mortagne; but we have fince heard nothing further of the Execu-tion of his Pojects. The French talk much of being very early in the Field. It is faid the Troops of the Houshold will begin their March 2bout the 12th towards the Somme; and that the Gendarmerie, and some Regiments of Horse, which have been quarter'd in Poietou, are ordered to March the same way. At the same time several Officers are very lately gone from the Fron-tier Garrisons into France, and some as far as Toulon, to fetch their Recruits, which are to be taken from among the Galley Slaves. The Advices which the French let us have from Catalonia, continue to speak of the Progress they make in that Country, by extending their Quarters, and taking several small Posts. They speak of making taking ieveral imali rolls. I ney ipeak of making the Siege of Balaguer, which is faid to be fill in the Hands of the Allies; and at the fame time the, Duke of Vendome is represented to be very preffing to undertake the Siege of Barcelona, and very confident of the Success of it; but we are told that Mareschal Staremberg is fortifying Ostal-ric, and has posted a Body of Troops there under the Command of a Lieutenant-General, it being a very important Pass for hindering the Approach of the Enemy towards Barcelona. We hear, that the Fleet of the Allies met with a great Storm on the Coast of Catalonia, in which it is supposed they received considerable Damage; but we cannot give credit to the Particulars which are removed concerning that Misserson which are removed concerning that Misserson will we have ported concerning that Misfortune, 'till we have Accounts of it from our own People.

Whitehall, March 5. Captain Cosby, Aid de Camp to Lieutenant-General Stanbope, is arrived from Barcelona, and his brought the following Partieulars of the late Attion near Villa-Viciosu in Spain.

Before his Catholick Majefty left Cienpoznelos, it was resolv'd in a Council of War, that the Forces should retire into Winter Quarters on the Frontiers of Arragon; whereupon the several Garrisons were drawn out of Toledo, and the other Posts, and the necessary Dispositions made for the March of the whole Army. The fatigues of a long Campaign, the badness of the Weather in a Season so much advanced, and the want of Tents and Provisions, made General Staremberg judge it more convenient for the Troops to March in several Columns, with the Commanders of each Nation at the Head of their own People; and accordingly they began their March on the 3d of December, N. S. from Chinchon and Villarizo. By this Disposition it was the Post of the English, under the Command of the Generals Stanhope, Carpenter, Wills, Pepper and Gore, to direct their Course along the Tajuna; and in pursuance to the Orders they had receiv'd, they marched the 6th to Bribuega, a Village of about one thousand Houses, situated on the side of a Mountain near the Tajuna. Here they halted the 7th, as did all the rest of the Troops in their respective Cantons. The fame Night General Stanhope expecting Marshal Staremberg's Orders, commanded the Forces to be in a readiness to March at an hour's warning. The next Day about eleven a-Clock we dif-cover'd on the top of a Hill that overlooks the Town, a Body of two thousand Horse, and some Foot; but having been followed in the two Days March before by feveral small Farties of the Enemy, whose Design was to intercept such Straglers as fell into their Hands, and not knowing any thing of an Army they had in those Parts, where the whole Country were our declared Enemies, and depriv'd us of all manner of Intelligence, we conceiv'd those Troops that appear'd on the Hills confifted only of the small Parties mention'd be-fore, which were now join'd in one Body. How-ever, General Stanliope gave Orders to beat to Arms, and immediately caused the Troops to be affembled. ... The Enemy having march'd their Battalions and Squadrors under the cover of the Hills, and having possess'd themselves of all the Avenues to the Town, they planted a Battery of five Pieces of Cannon on the Place where the two thousand Horse were drawn up, and from thence played upon our People. When General Stanhope perceiv'd himself invested in this manner, he or-der'd Captain Cosby, his Aid de Camp, to go to Marshal Staremberg, who then lay at Cifuentes, a Town about four small Leagues distant from Brihuega, and inform him of the Circumstances he was in, particularly that he had but very little Ammunition; which, however, he wou'd manage in the best manner he cou'd, and not fire a Shor, but where there was an absolute Necessity; that he wou'd endeavour to maintain the Place 'till his Excellency had time to come to his Relief, or fend him Succours. The Aid de Camp left the General at in the Evening, and being ob-The Aid de Camp left liged to quit the direct Road for fear of the Enemy's Parties, he came not up to Marihal Staremberg 'till eleven a Clock the fame Night. So foon as the Marshal had Notice of the Danger the English were in, he order'd all the Troops that lay at Cifuentes, and the adjacent Villages, to be assembled, and began his March the 9th, a little before ten in the Morning. Being arriv'd by five in the Afternoon at a Place about half way hetween Cifuentes and Brihuega, he order'd nine Pieces of Cannon to be fired as a Signal to General Stanhope, that he was marching to his Relief, and there lay under Arms all that Night. Early the next Morning, being the 10th, he disposed his Army into a Line, and so marched on in good Order 'till one a Clock, by which time he perceiv'd the Enemy forming themselves into order or Eattel, with their Right Wing at the Village of Villa-Viciosa, and their Lest at a Wood on the Plains of los Campos de los Mancebos; and having by this means all the Advantage of the Ground, the Marshal found himself oblig'd to extend his Left against fome square Walls, drawing the Horse of his Right in the Rear of his first and second Line, and covering his Flank with four Companies of Grenadiers, two Battalions, and two Squadrons. In the mean while the Cannon play'd on both fides, but ours with more Success, 'till about three a-Clock; at which time the Enemy attack'd our Right Wing with much Vigour, and made them give way at first, but they soon recover'd, and form'd themselves into good Order. At the same time our Lest was so closely push'd by a much superior Number of Horse, that they were dispers'd, and purfu'd by the Enemy, who meeting with our Eaggage, which lay in the Rear of our fecond Line, they left the Pursuit, and fell to Plunder. Whilif this was doing, the second Line of Horse in their Right had taken our Left Wing of Foot in Flank, Front and Rear, and after a very hot Dispute had almost cut off eight Battalions; after which, thinking themselves every way Victorious, they also sell into the Pillage; which Marshal Staremberg soon perceived, and made an Advantage of it, for he in-Rantly form'd the Foot of his Right into hollow Squares, and posting his Cavalry on their Flanks, he charg'd their whole Body of Foot so vigorously, that he entirely routed them, and our Men purfu'd them for above half a League of Ground together. The Success the Enemy had in the beginning had so exasperated our Soldiers, that they did not trouble themselves to make many Prifoners. However, some General Officers were taken, who declar'd, that they had made three Breaches in the Walls of Brihuega, and attack'd General Stanhope five several times at each Breach, and were as often repulsed with great Slaughter; but renewing the Attack the 9th at Sunset, they then obliged him and the Troops under his Command to surrender Prisoners of War, which they had not done even then, had they not fpent all their Ammunition. Marshal Staremberg pursu'd his Victory till more than an Hour after it was dark, and lay beyond the Pield of Battel 'till eight the next Morning, at which time he found the Enemy had retir'd in great Confusion by the favour of the Night, and that such of our Baggage, and Artillery Mules, as their Horse had not been able to deliroy or carry off, the Peafants of the Country had done for them; whereupon he was obliged to burn all the Carriages, and Nail up both our own Cannon and those we had taken from the Enemy; after which he pursu'd his March, without any Interruption, towards the Frontiers of Arragon. The Enemy lost above fix thousand Men in the Action; our Loss does not amount to half the Number. Lieutenant-General Belcassel is among the Slain, and is univerfally Lamented. Marthal Staremberg fent three Trumpets one after another to get Information of the Prisoners taken by the Enemy, who were so far from returning an Answer to the Marshal, that they would not so much as permit the Trumpets to come back; fo that when Captain Cosby came away, no particular Account could be had of them.
