No. 44 Staughton Highway

The conservation area contains a small portion of Staughton Highway situated along the main road between St. Neots and Northampton. The highway itself forms an essential part of the street scene, being an unusually wide carriageway, bordered on both sides by grass verges and trees. On its southern side, the boundary commences with No. 57 The Highway and extends in an easterly direction as far as Brook Farm. The boundary then returns along the northern side from No. 12 The Highway, to include Nos. 1-7 Cage Lane as far as No. 22 The Highway. It then excludes No. 24 The Highway and the petrol filling station at the junction of Beachampstead Road, before recommencing with Nos. 32 The Highway as far as No. 64 The Highway, to include the Village Cross.

No. 45 The Town, Great Staughton

The Town is a separate hamlet within the parish of Great Staughton in the valley of the River Kym. The bridge over the river marks the eastern extent of the conservation area boundary, and on the northern side of the road the boundary includes the old cemetery and Place House with its extensive gardens. On the southern side of The Town the boundary commences with St. Andrew's Parish Church and extends in a south-westerly direction to include all properties as far as Staughton Manor and its large grounds. The boundary also contains the complex of farm buildings opposite Rectory Farm, and finishes by including No. 39 The Town, along the road to Little Staughton.
