

Great Britain to the Grand Duke of Tuscany, was arrived there from Florence, in his return towards England. They continue at Frankfort the necessary Dispositions for the Election of a new Emperor. The Landgravé of Hesse-Cassel having been for some time at the Baths at Slangenbach, is return'd from thence to Cassel extremely afflicted at the Loss of his Princess, who died suddenly at Dietl on the 16th of the last Month. Brussels, July 7. N. S. We have Letters from Saragossa of the 16th of June importing, that the Duke and Dutchess of Anjou set out from thence the 10th, at five a Clock in the Morning, and lay that Night at Allagon, from whence they proceeded the next Day to Mallen, and were expected the 15th at Corella. According to these Letters they conceived great Hopes that the Dutchess of Anjou would soon be restored to a perfect State of Health, having born the Fatigues of the Journey without any visible Uneasiness or Indisposition. The Duke of Vendôme continued the 16th at Saragossa, but proposed to set out the Friday or Saturday following for Lerida. The Marquis de Valdecannas has received Orders to forward with all possible Diligence the Fortifications of Cervera, at which Place they are erecting a large Magazine for the use of the Army, and are accordingly Conducting thither great Quantities of Ammunition and Provisions from Lerida. They are likewise laying in some Stores at Tortosa, whither they have transported the Provisions lately arrived by Sea at Peniscola. The French Forces appointed to join the Duke of Anjou's Army make very slow Marches, for which reason it is thought that Marechal Staremberg, having been reinforced by the Succours out of Italy, will be in a Condition to make head against them before they can be able to attempt any thing in Catalonia this Campaign. The 5th Instant the German Troops that lay encamp'd for some time in the Neighbourhood of this Place, passed through the City in their way to Louvain; from whence they continued their March yesterday for the Rhine.
