Pembroke, April 20.

WE have just now received intelligence of a French Prize of about thirty Tuns, brought into this Harbor laden with Salt, and taken by the Milford Fregat.

Isle of Wight, April 23. The Paradox lately brought into Comes-Road, two Prizes, the one of a hundred and forty Tuns, called the Abraham, the other called the Hope, of about ninety Tuns; both pretend themselves Hamburgers, and came from Lisbon, laden with Sugars, Tobacco, Brasle-wood, Salt, Pickled Lemmons, Cinamon, and Sweet-meats in Cask: we have much cause to suspect them to belong to Amsterdam.

On Thursday night Sir Jeremy Smith came to the Spit-head, but weighed again by five the next morning, and stood for the Downs; leaving three of his Prizes at the Spit-head, which are intended hither to the Prize Office.

Falmouth, April 26. Here is brought into this Harbor by the Garland Fregat, a ship of two hundred and fifty Tuns, eighteen Guns, and fifty Men, which came directly from the Canary Islands, and has brought with her four hundred pipes of rich Wines, they pretend to belong to a Spanish Merchant, and to be bound for Offend. We are told that two or three Pickaroons, that have for some time plyed about St. Ives, and have done some hurt about those parts, are taken by one of his Majesty's Fregats.

Rome, April 17. The Cardinal Litta arriving here from Milan, entered on Sunday last this City, accompanied with sixty five Coaches, with six horses a piece, which the Cardinals, Ambassadors, and other great persons of the Court sent out to meet him: and on Thursday following had the solemnity of a formal Entry, and Cavalcade, by the Porto del Popolo, to his Holinesses Palace, who gave him the Cardinals Cap in the Consistory, with all the usual Ceremonies and Formalities. The guns from the Castle, that morning Proclaiming his future honors, which that night were concluded with Bonfires, Cardinal Chisi having likewise that day treated him, and the rest of the Cardinals of that promotion, with the Popes Kindred at a very magnificent dinner; after which the new Cardinal Litta returned his thanks to the Pope, giving also a visit to Cardinal Barbarini, as Dean of the Sacred Colledge in the absence of Cardinal de Medicis, who for the most part resides at Florence, visiting likewise Queen Christina of Sweden, intending the like civility to all the other Cardinals, and to the several Ambassadors. The Cardinals Sforza, Lantgrave, and Raggi; with a great number of Prelates and Nobles of the Spanish faction, are gone to Civita Vecchia, to salute the Cardinal d' Arragon in his passage, with whom they are to confer about the affaires of this Court.

The Sieur Caraffa, a Neapolitan Prelate, dyed about two daies since, by whose death, the charge of Vice-gerent, or substitute to the Popes Grand Vicar is become vacant.

Yesterday in the Evening, the Auditor of the Sieur de Bourlomon, the French Agent, received three stabs with a knife, which wounds his thought, he cannot out-live, great search hath been made after the author of the fact, but hitherto in vain. We have little news as yet from Candia: the Knights of Malta, in compliance with the Popes inclination, are resolved to assist that Republick against the Turks, with seven stout Gallies, with whom are to be joynd three more out of his Holinesses Squadron.

Letters from Dover, April 28. tell us, that they are in those parts not a little busied and employed, in ungarrisoning the several Towns and Forts, to which purpose, Deputies and Commissioners have been sent from Ower Yssel for Twente and Veuebrugge, to see in what posture affairs stand in those parts: The Governors of Amelo and Olmarfen still exacting vigorously their contribution, declaring not to dislodge without some satisfaction given. We are very zealous after so good beginnings to bring all our differences to a close; the States having sent (as we are told) yesternight, an Exprels to Monsieur de Beuningen at Paris, which we think and hope here, is to try, if he can finde out any expedient to bring an accommodation with England.

Legorn, April 19. Our ships now lie securely within the Mole, where they are protected by the Great Duke: The Genouefe are so far from furnishing the French with Seamen, that the State has set forth an order to prevent them, commanding, that none of their Subjects, under very heavy penalties, shall enter into the service of any foreign Prince.

A Bark bound for Civita Vecchia, informs us, that the French Fleet were put out to Sea, where they ride onely to keep their Seamen together, but cannot be ready for service before the next moneth.

They write from Milan, that the Governor there, has given Orders for the reparation and beautifying of the Dukes Palace, against the arrival of her Imperial Majesty: That he has likewise commanded a Pageant or Triumphal Arch to be erected by the City at Porta Ticense, very large, with rooms both within and without it; repairing also the Great Bridge of St. Lorenzo, and the raising two other Triumphal Arches, the one at Carubbio, the other, a very stately one at the entry into the Piazza del Duomo. But by Letters lately received from Spain, they expect not the Empress till the end of May, whose passage is attended by all the Maritime force of that Kingdom.

The Marquis Casfel Rodrigo, Governor of the Catholick Low Countreys, has sent to the Governor of Milan, to take order for the speedy marching of a third part of the Infantry, raised at Naples, to Milan; which with the forces in the Duchy, are to march to the confines of Germany, where they are to meet with further Orders to pass them into Flanders.

The Great Duke, and Dutchess, and Prince, with the Princess of Tuscany, are yesterday parted from Pisa, in order to their return to Florence.

Vicenna, April 10. Monsieur de Liboveron, who was here formerly as Resident from Denmark, is now again employed here in the same Character, whose greatest business is (as 'tis thought) to have an eye upon the Swedish Negotiation.

We have information from Comorra of the Death of the Balsa Visier of Buda, which is no pleasing news to this Court, he having been a person very much inclined to Peace, and willing, upon all occasions, to compose all arising and growing quarrels; facilitating the many and intricate disputes upon the confines, and preserving all things as far as he was able in peace and quietness.

We are likewise told that the Palatine of Hungary understanding that his Imperial Majesty had without his privity, granted out a pardon to Count Balass, who in the times of his running to Arms, had wasted some of the Territories and Lands belonging to the Palatine, resolved to have his revenge, and getting together some of the Imperial forces, he fell upon a Castle belonging to the Count, which he took, cutting in pieces many soldiers, carrying away besides the spoyle of the places, a great number of Prisoners, and many Officers.

Letters from Transylvania advise us, that Abassi has diverted a very great multitude from falling upon the Roman Catholicks Catholics in that Country. The Turks having gotten together a very considerable body, pretending to send them into Dalmatia, but designing them to fall into Ukraine: but by the Mediation of Absfi, that Storm was blown over.

By Letters from Warsaw we are informed, that two Deputies have been sent from the confederate Army, with Plenipotentiary power from Lubomirski and his friends, to declare to them his readiness to lay his life at the feet of his Prince, to whom he would submit all his pretensions whatsoever; That he desired nothing more than an accommodation with the Royal house, desiring the whole business might be remitted to the Referendary of that Crown, to whom he would open all his soul, and by him receive his Majesty's grace and clemency; but what this will produce, a little time must show.

Hague, May 4. In ten days or less, the States of Holland intend to meet again, and then it is expected they will resume further thoughts of the Prince of Orange, and particularly that of taking him into the Council of State, and granting him a Pension. Six of the Provinces have already declared their consent to it, and four have gone further, and agreed to make him Captain General at the age of eighteen.

In order to the stricter Alliance aimed at with Brandenburgh, Lunenburg, and our other Neighbor Allies, De Witte and Beverning have met about the Project to be proposed: The intent of it will be for a greater security to all parties against any attempts or disturbance from abroad, by reason of this or any former Alliances. And we are the more forward in it, from a late Memorial the Spanish Ambassador hath given in here, for entering into a League on that side, for the security of the Body of the Low-Countries.

This day a Copy of the Project was brought in, and Copies ordered to be given of it to the Ministers of such of the Allies as are at present residing here, and that the Sieur Heinbergh being now on his return to Wolfenbuttel, shall carry one along with him.

They of Holland have brought in their Ratification of the Bishops Treaty, and the other Provinces are about theirs with all the expedition they can. In the mean time it is said, a Secretary is arrived here from Munster with the Ratification on the Bishops part. And hitherto we have not observed, but that he proceeds clearly in the execution of it; the Evacuation of our places being in a fair way, and that of Deutekum already performed.

Again they of Holland have been obliged to press the other Provinces to bring in their Quotas to the Treaties of Brandenburgh, Lunenburg, and Denmark, which are yet all upon our hands.

The Sieur Busman Envoyé from the Elector of Colea, hath demanded a Conference about the business of Rhinberk, which is a point we shall be hardly brought to satisfy his Master in.

The Ministers of Brandenburgh have given in a Complaint of the great excesses the French Troops continue to commit in Rees and Emerick, where having eaten up all their Hay this Winter, they now waste and spoil their Meadows, to the great loss and vexation of the Inhabitants, which is referred to the Council of State to consider of.

Amsterdam, May 4. We are in pain till we see the Bishops Forces well disposed of. Its certainly writ hither, that the Marquis Castel Rodrigo hath returned Forty thousand Crowns to engage 3000 of his best Horse, which are to pass forthwith into Flanders, for the better security of that Country.

All care and arts possible, are used to get our Fleet to Sea; but we want that of making men, without doing which, we see not how to complement our numbers. The first instant we had in the Texel 36 Men of War, and two Fire-ships. Upon the Ulieter were 19, and at Medenblick four, which want the greater part of their men. At the same time an account was taken of their readiness, and it was found, that some Captains had their whole numbers, but Tromp, and the greatest part of the rest were very wanting. However in all appearance, they will take the Sea as soon as possibly they can, with an intention, as some think, to go and gather up the Danish Squadron. And to this end, they hope in a week or ten days, to have about 59 or 60 ships out, besides the six that are cruising upon the Dogger-Sands. Those of Zealand must follow after with four, yet remaining unready in the Meuse. In the mean time, we are in continual alarms, for fear of an invasion from England; to prevent which, Troops are daily ordered to pass towards Scheveling, and the neighbor Coast, to have an eye to what may be attempted by the English Fleet, which we hear hath much prevented us in their readiness.

Dublin, April 14. The Parliament have agreed upon these following Bills, which they have desired of the Lord Lieutenant and Council may be transmitted.

That all Privileges of Parliament may be waived, and taken away in all Sutes and Actions at Law, in any of the Kings Courts: provided that the Individual persons of Parliament men be free from restraint.

This Act to continue for two years, if the Parliament continue so long; provided that this Act, or any thing therein may not abrogate the Privileges of Parliament, after the said two years. And have moreover ordered a Committee, who are, out of an Act for establishing an additional Revenue upon his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, for the better support of the Crown and dignity, and out of two Bills lately read in the House, relating to that affair, and the debates since hapning, to prepare heads of a Bill for the further settlement of the Revenue, in such sort and manner, as may best suit with his Majesty's service: which Committee is to perfect it with all expedition, and having agreed upon a draught to present the same to his Grace the Lord Lieutenant, with the request of the House, that it may be transmitted.

Edinburgh, April 26. This day three of Captain Hamiltons prizes were sold off; the Vessels, without the lading, yielding him 26000 Marks, having still one more to sell, and a lading of French Wines.

Barnstable, April 27. The Swan of this Port arriving here from Cork in Ireland, informs us that the Saphire, Dartmouth, and Little Guist Fregats, brought lately into Kingsale three Dutch Prizes, one of thirty Guns, another of twenty, and a third of eighteen, all three light Merchantmen, outward bound for Galicia and Rechel: The Saphire first met with them, and with the loss of fourteen Men, had taken two of them before the Dartmouth and Guist came up, at whose approach, the third likewise rendered her self. Here arrived also a small Vessel off Topsham, called the Bartholomew from the Maderas, who had been chased twenty Leagues off the Lands-end, by a Dutch Man of War of twenty four guns, telling us also of seven or eight Rowers, small French men of War, with more than twenty Oars each, who had taken two Loovers, and two small Plymouth men, and that they keep their station between Scilly and the Lizard.

Dover, April 29. This morning at seven sailed by into the Downs Sir Jeremy Smith, with twelve men of War, and three Canary men, four of his Squadron being left to be fitted at Portsmouth. We have news by a Newport sloop, that the Dover Packet boat was again taken going to Newport, by a Dunkirk Privateer, and carried into Dunkirk.

Munday, April 30. This morning those eight persons condemned at the Old Bailey for High Treason, were according to their Sentence executed at Tyburn.

Whitchal, April 30. This day the Lord Morley and Monteagle was solemnly arraigned in Westminster-Hall, for the Death and killing of Mr. Henry Hastings, according to a Commission formerly directed to the Lord High Chancellor, to that purpose, who sat as Lord High Steward of England for that Tryal. Where after a full examination of the several Evidences against him, he was by his Peers found guilty of Man-slaughter. Whereupon, having demanded the Privilege of his Clergy, it was according to the Law in that Case provided, allowed him; and his Grace the Lord High Steward did in consequence, declare him discharged, upon paying his Fees. A particular Narrative of the whole solemnity will in few days be elsewhere made publick.

The Account of this Weeks Bill runs thus. The Total 213. Of the Plague 40. Decreased in all 2. Increased of the Plague 16.
