

in laying the Terms of Peace before Your Parliament, and as that was unprecedented by any of Your Predecessors, so are the Glories of Your Majesty's Reign, which have justly intitled Your Majesty to be Mediator to Europe; an Honour, we are not so much surpris'd to find enjoy'd by Your Allies, as that there should be a Spirit in some of Your own Subjects, so restless and furious, as to endeavour to deny Your Majesty the Glory, and Your People the Happiness of such a Peace, so Honourable and Advantageous to Britain, and so just and reasonable to all Her Allies.

We can't sufficiently admire Your Majesty's Great Wisdom and Resolution in the carrying on this great and good Work, through the many Difficulties and Obstructions Your Majesty has met with from some of Your Allies, who though they have not in any Degree felt the Burden that Britain bore of the War; yet would reap all the Advantages that can be gain'd by a Peace, and from a Sett of People at Home, whose Interest was founded on War; and whose Power depended on the Ruin of their Country.

May the Almighty grant You, Ma'am, a long Life; may all Your Undertakings be Crown'd with Success; may Faction be buried, and Loyalty flourish, and may no Contention remain, but who can shew themselves the most dutiful Subjects to the best of Queens, and then we shall have no Occasion for a Foreign Guarantee to secure the Succession in the Illustrious House of Hanover; which after the unspeakable Loss of so great and good a Princess, we have most sincerely at our Hearts.

All which Addresses Her Majesty received very graciously.

Hamburg, July 4. N. S. Eight thousand Danes which for some time have been Quarter'd in Pomerania, pass'd the first of this Month near Wismar, and encamp'd at Lubau. The two Battalions of that Nation, which are under the Command of the Count de Sponeck, continue still about Rostock, and will remain there to block up that Place, while the rest of the Danish Army makes an Incurfion into the Dutchy of Bremen, where the Conternation is Universal, and the Inhabitants are withdrawing on all sides with their best Effects. The Forces of Denmark, which have Winter'd in Holstein, will march to Morrow to a Camp mark'd out for them near Bramsted, and when they have been review'd there, it is suspected they may make some attempt on Staden. King Stanislaus is returned to Carelsroon from Stockholm, where he had been to hasten the necessary Supplies for Pomerania and other Territories in Germany, belonging to that Crown.

Brussels, July 12. N. S. Nipe Squadrons of the Mercenary Troops in British Pay, which halted here for some time to refresh themselves, went Yesterday towards the Camp. They will be followed very soon by Fifteen hundred Recruits, when the Detachment is returned which was sent by the Commandant of this Place to Convoy some Waggons to Ghent. Yesterday, at two of the Clock in the Afternoon, his Excellency the Earl of Strafford arriv'd here in a Post-Chaise from the Hague, and was saluted with a triple Discharge of the Artillery. He alighted at the Post-house to change Horses, and having received the Compliments of several Persons of Quality, pursued his Journey towards the Army.

Utrecht, July 12. N. S. On the tenth Instant the Lord Privy-Seal return'd hither from the Hague, where he left the Earl of Strafford ready to set out for the Army in Flanders. And some other Ministers of the Allies, who went to that Place to confer with their Lordships, are daily expected back. The Ministers who are present here, held a Conference Yesterday in the Town-house, as usual.
