the Benate, that they would please to recal him from his employment, in which he has given, indeed, eminent tellimonies of his zeal for the service of his Countrey, using as a motive his great age, which renders him unable to follow the motions of that Court, which requires rather the presence of fome more vigorous perfor; giving them withall, an account of several services he has done for the Republick, in obtaining the confirmation of all that concerned the late peace, and leave for the rebuilding the Church of Galata, which was ruined at the beginning of the war, with the re-establishment of the Christian Religion in those parts; upon consideration of the whole matter, the Sonate has granted his desire, and is no vintent upon the choice of his fucceffor, which tis believed may fall upon Chevalier Luirini: the Grand Visier has a great kindness for Ch valier Molino, who has lately obliged him ty lending him Two ships which were at his disposal at C ft ntinople, to be sent with several others to Mecca, to cor ov the Presents which are yearly sent thither from the Ott man Family upon the account of Devotion.

The Visier is said to have ordered about 200 Londres (which are small vessels, carrying from 23 to 30 men apiece) to be provided and fitted up, pretending to send them towards the Black sea, against the Russians and Cossacks, and has taken care to reinforce his old Regiments, and to keep them under a strict discipline; he has also given outnew Commissions for the arming out many ships, which gives no small jealousie to the neighbouring Princes of Christendom.

By a Bark lately arrived from Dalmatia we are informed, that the Turkish Commissioners for the adjousting all disputes about the Limits, are arrived at Clisso with a numerous Train, for whose reception and accommodation, several Tents were set up thereabouts. Our Captain General in those parts has made such preparations for that affair, that we cannot but expect a quick dispatch to the satisfaction of this State; he has likewise taken care to distribute and proportion the vacant and unhabited lands within our territories, that it hoped the Country may be in little time repeopled, cultivated, and inhabited as it was b fore the wars.

The Christians are permitted free Trade and Commerce in Candia, with liberty to go and come as they please, but are for bid under a levere penalty to slir out of their houses before Sun rising or after the Sun sett.

of their houses before Sun rising or after the Sun sett. Some days since one Cornara in a set speech which he made in the Great Council, accused Captain General Morosini of destrauding the publick Treasure, and without necessity delivering Candia to the Turks; which is the more remarkable, in that it was never before known, that any person had been accusted by name in that Aslembly; upon the Ballot the accusation was favoured. Segnior Francisco Ericio, son to the late Duke of that name, made Inquisitor to form a Process against him, which is like to be the work of some months. The Senate is generally inclimed to favour the Captain General.

"Some of our Letters from the Levant tell us, that the Grand Segnior is growne jealous of the Visier, who has made himself Master of the Army, and filled all the considerable places of the Empire, with his Creatures, Friends and Relations, and that he holds a private Correspondence with the Sulvaness, for the preservation of the Emperors two brethren, in consideration that he has joinly one son, and he not a healthy Consideration of a healthy Constitution.
