 An humble Address of the Survivors of those who first secured the City of Londonderry in Ireland, on the late happy Revolution in the Year 1688, and of the late Governor, Officers of the Garrison, and Citizens of that City who defended the same, and were Sufferers there during the long memorable Siege thereof in the Year 1689; presented to his Majesty by Sir Alexander Cairnes, and Lieutenant General Meredith, introduced

Which Address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

Venice January 11. On New Year's Day the Doge held a Chappel, according to Custom, in the Church of St. Mark, being accompanied by the Signiory and the Pope's Nuncio. After Mass Publick Prayers were begun, for imploring the Assistance and Protection of the Almighty, in the present Juncture of an approaching War with the Turks; on which Occasion the Patriarch Barbarigo has publish'd in the Pope's Name a Bull of plenary Indulgence, to be obtained by those Subjects of this State especially, who shall perform the Acts of Religion therein prescribed. A Courier from Vienna arriving the 31st past, with Letters from Constantinople giving an Account of the Port's having actually declared War against this Republick, the Senate have chosen two extraordinary Ambassadors to go to the Emperor to sollicit his Assistance, viz. Sig. Zani and Sig. Morosini. Count Colonna, Ambassador from the Emperor in the Room of Prince Ercolani, is expected here in a few Days, having almost finished his Quarantine on the Frontier. Barks arrive daily from several Towns of the Terra firma, laden with Artillery, Ammunition and Provisions, which are to be put on board the Transports that are ready to sail for Dalmatia, with the Troops appointed to reinforce the Garrisons of the fortified Places of that Country, which are putting into a Condition to make a vigorous Defence in Case they should be attacked. Sig. Castelli and Zugo, Major-Generals, are sent for, in order to be dispatched to view the Places of Strength in our Islands, and especially on the Morea, in order to the supplying them with all things necessary. Most of the Veteran Regiments which were in the Towns of the Terra firma, are on the March to embark here for the Levant, and their room will be supplied by Militia. A Treaty is said to be already made, for taking into the Service of this State 7500 Saxons; and Negotiations are on foot for procuring other Regiments of several Princes of Germany, and for a General to command them; some Forces will also be hired of the Swiss and Grisons. The beginning of next Month, 5 Men of War, 2 Gallies, and a great Number of Transports, having on board Troops, Ammunition and Provisions, will be ready to sail for the Levant, under the Command of Sig. Fabio Buonvicini; Sig. Marco Loredano is appointed Provveditore extraordinary of the Fleet, and Sig. Marcello and Piombino, Nobles, are chosen to accompany him, London, Jan. 7. The Prince Piombino, who accompanied the Queen the whole Journey from Italy, is preparing to return to Rome: Whereupon the King has nominated the Widow of the Count d'Altamira, who died Ambassador at the Court of Rome in 1699, to be first Lady of the Bed-Chamber to the Queen; the Marquis de Grimaldo to be her Majesty's Secretary, and the Prince de Cellamare (Nephew of the Cardinal del Guadice) to be her Master of the Horse. His Majesty has appointed M. Bourk, a Native of Ireland, who had resided here some Years in the Quality of Envoy from the Comte at St. Germain, to go to Stralsund, to Congratulate
