doun.

Which Addresses his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

Stockholm, August 9. Letters from Carlscrona of the 3d of this Month advise, that Admiral Sparre would use his utmost Endeavours to get the Fleet speedily refitted, and that he hoped to be at Sea again in 14 Days with at least 10 Men of War. Two Days ago arrived an Express from Gotland, with an Account that last Week six Muscovite Frigates landed about 200 Men on that Island, and carried off a Minister with some few Peasants, without doing any other Harm to the Inhabitants, but told them that they would very shortly make them another Visit. The King had lately given secret Orders to Admiral Lewenhaupt to carry through the Belt to Stralsund what Frigates and Gallies he could possibly fit out at Got-tenberg; accordingly that Admiral sailed the last Week from thence, with 2 Frigates of 20 and 24 Guns, and 5 or 6 small Gallies.

Copenhagen, August 31. Our Fleet under the Command of Admiral Rabe was to have sailed from Steffens some Days since, but by our last Advices from thence we find they had staid for a new Supply of Canon Ball, and Beer, and were still at Anchor Yesterday near the Bay of Kiog; but we expect that the Admiral will now sail with the first fair Wind, he having received some Orders sealed, which he is not to open till he comes near the Island of Bornholm. We flatter our selves here that the Muscovite Fleet will suddenly come and join ours. A Placard has been publish'd here some Days since relating to the Commerce with both Altena and Hamburg, in which Places it is represented that some Marks of a contagious Distemper have appeared.

Copenhagen, September 3. The remaining Transports, which were waiting for Convoy sometime under the Island of Mona, having not been able to stir by reason of the stormy Weather, which we have had of late, Vice-Admiral Troeyel returned last Week and joynd Admiral Rabe near Steffens; and on Friday last the 30th in the Evening all the Danish Fleet, consisting of 19 Ships of the Line, weighed Anchor by Order from the King, and as we judge are gone first to convoy those Transports towards the new Deep, being afterwards to cruize on the Coast of Rugen in order to cover Vice-Admiral Sehestedt during his Operations, and to hinder any Succours coming from Sweden. We are assured that 7 or 8 light Muscovite Frigates have been on the Coast of Jotland to view it, the Czar having a Design to make himself Master of that Island.
