DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT

WATER INDUSTRY ACT 1991, SECTION 19(1)(b)

Consumers supplied by Folkestone and Dover Water Services Limited who might be affected by improvement work being carried out by the Company will wish to be aware of the following information.

The Company has found through its water quality monitoring programme that water received by consumers in these areas fails on occasion to meet the standards, for certain parameters (normally those associated with occasional occurrences of discoloured water), as required by the Water Supply (Water Quality) Regulations 1989, because of deficiencies in the distribution system. These failures do not make the water unsafe to drink at any time.

The Company gave legally binding undertakings on 26th January 1990, to carry out appropriate remedial work, as the first stage of a long term programme, to refurbish affected parts of the distribution system.

The Secretary of State for the Environment reviewed these undertakings and concluded that whilst the Company had taken action to discharge its duties in respect of the undertakings, the steps in the undertakings no longer remained the most appropriate for the Company to take to achieve compliance with the standards for the particular parameters.

Consequently the Secretary of State required the Company to give a new undertaking containing appropriate steps to carry out further remedial work as the next stage in the programme of improvement.

The Company has given a new undertaking on 27th September 1996, and the Secretary of State has informed the Company that he is satisfied the Company is complying with this new undertaking by serving on them the notice below:
