krom Bohday, April 1 to Thursday April 20 1671.

He ost tustant tame into this Port the Society and Bilboa, two Merchant men bound for London, and the next day they sailed again with a fair wind; at the same time put, to sea several other vessels of Tarmouth and other parts, bound for several places in France. The 1 oth arrived here the Blessing of London from Kingsle in Ireland: and this day by a vessel come in from the Downs we are told, that the Fleet bound for famaica and Barbado's, are passed by this Harbor; which we the rather believe, because several Guns have been this morning heard here a shore, which the Master of the said vessel says, were fired by them.

Truro, April 13. The 11th instant a great Fleet of Merchant-men past the Lizard, which we suppose to be the remainder of the sircights Fleet, they having the wird at Sauth Lust, kept the whole day off of the shore, lut proving somewhat favourable towards the evening, it is hoped they might get up the Clannel: Here is arrived a vessel in some days from Crostel, but brings not any thing of news.

from Croifiel, bur brings not any thing of news.

Plymouth, *fril 14. There are at present sailing out of this Port the Peering and the Margarer of this place, both bound for famaica; together with the fall n at d Nargaret, Robert Martyn Commander, bound for the East Indies; This day arrived here the Industry of London, Rolard Yard Commander, Jaden with Tobacco from Virginia.

Rome, April 4. The Pope continues still much troub hed with a Rhoume, notwill flanding which, he hath mot omitted to affift confantly at the Functions and other publick Solemniti & fthis Eafter week, though the whole Colledge of Gardinals having a particular regard to his great age and present indisposition of health, would willingly have perswaded him to the contrary. The first different the Duke de Gravina Orfino, arrived at Caftel Gondolpho, few miles of this mace from Naples, where he was received and entertained in the Castle with great honours and respect, on the part of the Cardinal Altierie, who to that end had sent thither several of the principal Officers of his Houthold; the same day he came to Fown, and after having for some short time refresht hin felfafter his journey, he went prefently to vilit his Bride the Lady Ludovica Altieri, as likewise some others of his nearest Relations : the mext day he was to pay! is duty to his Holines, who was pleafed to receive him with very particular expressions of esteem and affection; in the mean time allthings are making ready for the celebrating the Marriage, immediately after which, that Duke intends to return with his Lady to Naples, to avoid the great expendes of this Court.

The Marquis de Saignelay continues still here, viewing the several curiosities of the place; it is said, that soon after, the solemnity of Canonizing the page new Saints, which is to be the 12th instant, is page he will got hence towards Naples, to make some short stay there, and so to return for France.

In few days the Prince de Palestrina intends to depart for Loretto, to meet there the Dutchess Dowager de Modena his Sister, who it is said is coming to fons from the controverted places on the borders.

It is now certainly faid that the Cardinals Cap, at present void, will be disposed of to Baily Rospig-Visit, Nephew to the late Pope Clement the IX.

From Bolggne they write, that all things are at length fairly composed, and the Countrey setled again in an chtire quietness.

Venice, April 11. Some days fince imported a Gally from the Coast of Dalmaria, with Letters from General Barbaro to the Senate,, in which he very earnestly presses them to send him some further supply of Money for the carrying on their service in those parts; and also informs them that the Bassa of Bosnia was dead, and that other Commissioners were arrived from the Port, to Treat with this Republick, in the matter of the limits.

We very much fear fome milunderstanding may arise between the Port and this State, occasioned by what lately happened in Dalmatia, which was thus, During the late warr between the Ottomans and this State, the Grand Signior having by his Bassa's invaded the Territories of this Republick in Datmatia, Albania, &c. The Venetians very bravely refisted them, obtaining many advantages over them, in the year 1648, under the conduct of Leonardo Foscolo, they took Cattaro, a very large and considerable Port, able to receive the greatest ships, being five miles long, as much in breadth; upon which the Turks quitted a certain place called Rissano, an open indefensible place, lying at the foot of Montenegro, of which the Venetians likewise possessed themselves, which places were by the late Treaty of peace at Gandia, left in the possession of the Rc-publick; now it so happened, that this last winter one Philippovich, together with some other eminent persons, so far prevailed with the Bassa of Bosnia, as that he should connive at a designe they had of feizing on Rissano, where they supposed to find but little opposition: General Barbaro having received notice hereof, conveys privately some men into the Town; the Inhabitants of Montenegro, notwithstanding they are subjects of the Port, undertaking the defence of the place, and further he fends a Gally into the Port, as a Guard to the place; Philippovich comes with 3000 Turks to surprize the Town, but meets with such warm resistance, that he was forced to retire in great confusion, leaving about two or three hundred of his men killed upon the place; the Bassa is very much incensed hereat, and especially with the inhabitants of Montenegro, and immediately being corrupted by the parties concerned in the action, writes to the Grand Vizier, giving him an account of what had passed very partially, and with much prejudice to the Republick and General Barbaro; the Vizier complains hereof to the Venetian Ambastador at the Port, and calls it a violation of the peace; first, in encouraging, as he will have it, the inhabitants of Montenegro, to bear Arms against the forces of the Grand Sign ior their Lord and Master; and next, for having discharged several Canon against them, befides leveral other things which he fays is a most notorious rupture of the present peace; insatisfaction for which, he first demands General Barbaro's head i Secondly, that the Venetians withdraw their Garriultil such time as that matter be determined; that what forwardness the Naval preparations what the Republick deliver up Cattaro into the hands of here making, are in. To morrow to the first the formal state of the control of the c the Grand Signiors Commissioners; and that they depute two persons of Quality to meet with those fent from the Port for the final adjusting the matter of the limits; this hath not a little allarmed the Senate, who are endeavouring by all possible means to prevent any further mischiefs that may arise from thence; and in the mean time are making choice of two perfons to be fent thither as their Commissioners, whose viceable to the State in this present conjuncture, great Numbers of T Hambrough, April 14. Our last Letters from Fires to fill the Wood Hummelen speak of some likelihood there seemed to find Recreation in it. be of an accommodation of the present differences depending between those Princes and the Bishop of Munster, which meets with the less credit here, seeing they continue to beat the Drum daily for the railing of Men for the service as well of the one as the other; so that we fear that not with standing the present report, and all the endeavors of the Mediators to the contrary, they will at length proceed to attempt fomething by force of Arms.

From Warfam of the 4th instant, they write, That the Tartars who lately made the Incursion into some of the Frontier Provinces of that Kingdom, carrying with them great numbers of People, with other rich Spoyles, had been happily overtaken on their return home, by a party of Poles Tent out by the General Sobietski to that purpose, whose sudden and unexpected arrival had put them into so great a consussion, that having quitted most of their Prisoners, and the greatest part of their Plunder, they were forced to retire very consu-fedly, leaving some of their Companions slain, and many taken brisoners upon the place.

From Stockholm they advise us, that the second instart the young King was with great folemnity brought to take his Seat in the Council, where it is fai', he will constantly be present on Post days and other Extraordinary occasions, for his better inforas yet to have any vote.

That they were in expectation of an Ambassador to arrive there from the Crown of France, but not having any certain advice of his departure from Paris, they were apt to think he would not be there so soon as was at first said; and that the Velt Heer Wrangle was arrived at Court, having been to visit the Militia of the Kingdom in the several Provinces, the Magazines, as also the Fortifications of the most confiderable places; and had accordingly reported to the Coupeil, what he had observed of most importance to the Government during his jouiney.

From Moscow of the 14th March they stell us, that it was very much feared that the reports they had had of the defeat of the Rebels under the conduct of Stephan Radzin, would prove falle and ground-less, which they had the more reason to apprehend, because the Czar was sending down all the forces he could bring together towards those parts where the Rebels were encamped; so that we find but too great cause to believe that these rumours were without ground, and that the Rebels are as powerful as Paris, April 22. The King hath some days since been pleased to bestow the Government of Languedec upon the Count de Lauzum, having at the fame time recompensed the Duke de Verneuil the present possessor, with the Government of Berry, heretofore given by his Majesty to the said Count.

Monfieur Colbert is returned from Rochel and Rochefort, and hath been to give his Majefty anaccount of the condition of his Magazines, and in ward with the whole Court toward. Consider to ward with the whole Court toward. Consider to his way for Dunkerke; very great and magnificant preparations are making by the Ptince de Conde, for the entertaining their Majestes during their stay there, which will be for two or three days a mongst other Divertisements, one particular its a Night Hunting in a most pleasant Wood theres. hich purpose, vast numbers of Lahthorns have Qualities and Abilities may render them most ser been provided to be hung up on the Trees, besides viceable to the State in this present conjuncture. > From Naples our Letters tell us, that the Marquis de Villa Franca was on His departure for Madrid, where it was faid, he will have fome considerable employment near the Kings person; that they had advice there from Palerma, that the States of that Kingdom had agreed to the raifing of four hundred thousand Crowns, to be employed for the defence and security of those Countries.

Hague, April 18. From Ratisbonne they write, that the States of the Empire have been frequently Affembled fince the holidays, though with as little fuccelle as formerly; for notwithstanding the great and constant endeavors of most of the Assembly, for the final concluding the matter of the publick fecurity, 2 thing of great importance to the whole Empire, they feem to be as yet but very little advanced in it; that the Bishop of Aichstadt, Commissioner for his Imperial Majesty in that Diet, hath obtained leave of the Emperor to retire to his House in the Countrey, to spend some time there in the Divertisements of the Season; his Imperial Majesty having in the mean time nominated a fit person for the management of the affairs of the Assembly, during his absence.

From Munster we have not lately heard any thing of news, things remaining in one posture there. Our Fleet we are told is quite ready, and onely expects Orders to fail Whitehal, April 19. Some days since prrived from France the Count de St. Geran, Gentleman of the Bedchamber to his most Christian Majesty, in quality of his Envoye Extraordinary; and this mot-ning he was with the Ceremonies usually practifed on the like occasion, Conducted by Sir Charles Corner rel Knight, Master of the Genemonia, to his Audience of their Majesties, pageondole, with them on the part of the King his Master, upon the death of her Royal Highnels the Dutchels of Jork; after which he was in like manner conducted to St James's, where he had Audience of his Royal Highnels upon the fame Subject.
