Venice, April 11.

Ya Vessel lately arrived at Leghorne from Smirna we are informed, that before its departure from thence, Orders were arrived from the Grand Visier, to stop all such Ships as should be then in Port, obliging them before they perfued their Voyages, to transport to Candia several materials for Building, of which it seems they are in some want there.

We have not lately had any Letters from the Port, from whence our last advice was, that the Grand Visier continued still with all the Art and Subtilty imaginable, to endeavor a composure of those misunderstandings, which so long have been between the Grand Segnior and the Sultaness his Mother, but with as little success as formerly; and that the Grand Segnior had still an intention of going into Afia, to pass some months this summer in those parts.

By a Tartan which came from Suda and Zant, we understand, that the Captain Basia was at Canea, giving order for the speedy victualling and setting out of a Squadron of Galleys to keep the Seas this summer

From Tunis we are told, that all the efforts the French have made to bring those people to a Peace have hitherto proved fruitless, they continuing very obstinate and not at all inclined to an accommodation, unless it be upon the Terms they themselves sometime since proposed to Monsieur Martel, his Most Christian Majesties Admiral in those

The Baylo de Molino, Ambassador from this Republick at the Port, omits not in all his letters, very earnestly to press the Schate, to make choice of ore to fucceed him in that employment, whose age and good difposition of health, may enable him to attend the motions of the Grand Segnior, which he through his great weakness, and many infirmities, in no wise is capable to do.

Paris . April 25. The 23 instant in the morning their Majesties departed with the whole Court from St. Germains to Chantilly, where they were that day entertained at a most sumptuous Dinner by the Prince de Conde, and afterward with those other Divertisement he had prepared for them: every thing was extraordinary splendid and magnificent, that Prince not having omitted any thing, which might advance the Pomp of those Entertainments; the charge whereof it is said amounts to upward of 50 Thousand Crowns; this day th ir Majesties went from thence towards Flanders, extreamly fatified with the great Gallantry and Nobleneis that Prince had shown upon this occasion; The Dutch Ambassador amongst other persons of the chiefest quality, follows his Majesty in this Journey; Monfieur Winditsgratz the Imperial Envoy in this Court, it was thought would have done the like, but it is now said, that upon some instructions ons received from Vienna, he is preparing for his return home, of which he hath accordingly given | Florence. norice to the Ministers here.

This week went hence the Princess Palatine, together with her Daughter the Princess Marie, lately married by Proxy to the Prince de Salme, to conduct her to her Husband.

We have advice here, that the French Troops were arrived at Tournay, under the Command of the Duke de Duras, and that they were proceeding on their march for Dunkerk. From Hammelen they give us as yet but little incouragement to hope for an accommodation, but tell us, that those Princes continue their Levies with much earnestness; that the Dukes of Brunswick were 1eturned thither from Lunenburgh, where they had affifted at the Assembly held for the Circle of the Lower Saxony; at which we are told, it was unanimously resolved, to protect and desend the City of Hoxter, in all the Rights and Priviledges granted them by the Peace of Munster; to which end they farther agreed to raise a considerable Army, under the Conduct of William Duke of Zell, to oppose the attempts of such, as should go about to disturb the present quiet of the Circle, or offer any violence to that place.

From Madrid our last Letters tellus, that the King enjoyes a perfect Health, to the great joy of that Court. That withe Count do Saftagnetta was departed from thence, together with his Lady, on his way for the Spanish Neatherlands, to take possession of the charge of Generall of the Naval Forces of those Countries; as likewite of the command of a Spanish Regiment, at present in Garrison at Ostend, lately conferred upon him by the Queen Regent, as a particular mark of the esteem she hash for him: That Don Michel de Gouea was made Secretary of State for the affairs of Mitan, in the room of Dom Inigo Fernandez del Campo, who had been removed to some considerable employment: That there was a discourse, as if Dom Vincenzo Gonzague would have the Government of Milan conferred upon him, in the troom of the Duke d'Ossuna who is sent for home; though others rather think, it may be given to the Count de Melgar Son to the Amirante de Castille, at present Governor of Novarre.

Leghorn, April 13. This day came into Port the Numborough Merchant, Boston and Castle Fregat, in & days from Port Mahon, where they Landed Provisions for Sir Edward Spragge, whom they left there with 10 Fregats, with which he intended very suddenly to go for Argiers, and if he found a fit opportunity, to attempt something upon the place, in order to the bringing them to a Peace. The Princess and Fatcon Fregats will sail with the first opportunity of wind and weather for Zant, and the English ferusalem for Gallipoli, to take inher lading of Oyles for England; the Nemca-site Fregat so soon as is fitted with a main Mast, and supplyed with some other necessaries she at present wants, will proceed to joyn with Sir Edward Spragger Squadron.

The 10th instant arrived here the Great Duke with his Court from Pifa, it is thought he may Ray here some few days longer, and so return to

Antwerp, April 25. The 19th instant the French

Troops were at Galue on their march to Dunkirke, and the next day they were to lodge at Steenftract, and so forward.

We were told that a party of 500 French horse had lately appeared under the Walls of Ghent; but as we have been since informed, they were onely sent out for the apprehending some Souldiers who had deserted their Companies.

Hague, April 24. The Councel of State have vertue of an Order of the States General to that purpose, commanded all Officers at present, or which hereafter shall be in their Service, of why Nation soever they may be, to exercise their Regiments or Companies in Dutch, to take Dutch Colours, to cause no other March to be beaten, then what is accustomed in their Provinces, and to conform themselves in every thing else to the Discipline of this place; so that all the Forreign Troops will for the suture be united under one Body, and be no more known by those distinct Names of the French, Highdutch, or other Regiments, as hath been heretosore practised. It is said they have resolved to pay the King of Denmark 60000 Gilders, in lieu of the Subsidies due to him from this State, about the latter end of this Month, and the other remaining Sum, within some short time farther.

Brussels, April 24. The Prince de Mamines is preparing himself for his journey, being appointed by his Catholick Majesty, to go in quality of Envoye Extraordinary to Complyment his most Christian Majesty upon his arrival in Flunders. Our Governox the Count de Monterey went hen e the 22 instant for Antwerp to setch his Lady, we the whom he returned again hither the next day.

Hazue, April 28. The 25 instant the States of Holland and Westfreesland parted, and the same day the States General deputed two of their Body to go and condole on their part with his Highneis the Prince of Orange, upon the death of the Dutchels of York; for whom his Highnels hath put himself and whole Family into mourning. Our Fleet is at present quite ready, the ships sett out by the Admiralty of Amsterdam are in the Texel, and it is said that Lieutenant Admiral de Ruyter and Lieute. nant Admiral de Ghent will in few days receive directions to fail with them, as likewise those of Rotterdam to the place of Rendezvouz, which it is thought will be in the Weilings : From Westphalie our letrers allure us, that the Bishop of Munster has finally accepted of the late project as proposed by the Dukes of Lunenbourg; and that the preliminaries being thus agreed on, they have allowed two months for the concluding the Principal Treaty, which we doubt not, fince they are so farr advanced, but will be done without any difficulty.

Falmouth, April 17. The 14 instant came in here the St. George of Topsham from Charante with wines, together with the Patience of Tarmouth, and three Merchant men more from Bourdeaux bound for London.
