

Troops were at Galve on their march to Dun-kirke, and the next day they were to lodge at Steenfract, and so forward.

We were told that a party of 500 French horse had lately appeared under the Walls of Ghent; but as we have been since informed, they were onely sent out for the apprehending some Souldiers who had deserted their Companies.

Hague, April 24. The Council of State have by the virtue of an Order of the States General to that purpose, commanded all Officers at present, or which hereafter shall be in their Service, of what Nation soever they may be, to exercise their Regiments or Companies in Dutch, to take Dutch Colours, to cause no other March to be beaten, then what is accustomed in these Provinces, and to conform themselves in every thing else to the Discipline of this place; so that all the Forreign Troops will for the future be united under one Body, and be no more known by those distinct Names of the French, Highdutch, or other Regiments, as hath been heretofore practised. It is said they have resolved to pay the King of Denmark 60000 Guilders, in lieu of the Subsidies due to him from this State, about the latter end of this Month, and the other remaining Sum, within some short time farther.

Brussels, April 24. The Prince de Mamies is preparing himself for his journey, being appointed by his Catholick Majesty, to go in quality of Envoye Extraordinary to Compliment his most Christian Majesty upon his arrival in Flanders. Our Governour the Count de Monterey went hence the 22 instant for Antwerp to fetch his Lady, with whom he returned again hither the next day.

Hague, April 28. The 25 instant the States of Holland and Westfrriesland parted, and the same day the States General deputed two of their Body to go and condole on their part with his Highness the Prince of Orange, upon the death of the Dutchess of Tork; for whom his Highness hath put himself and whole Family into mourning. Our Fleet is at present quite ready, the ships sent out by the Admiralty of Amsterdam are in the Texel, and it is said that Lieutenant Admiral de Ruyter and Lieutenant Admiral de Ghent will in few days receive directions to sail with them, as likewise those of Rotterdam to the place of Rendezvous, which it is thought will be in the Weilings: From Westphalie our letters assure us, that the Bishop of Munster has finally accepted of the late project as proposed by the Dukes of Lunenbourg; and that the preliminaries being thus agreed on, they have allowed two months for the concluding the Principal Treaty, which we doubt not, since they are so far advanced, but will be done without any difficulty.

Falmouth, April 17. The 14 instant came in here the St. George of Topsham from Charante with wines, together with the Patience of Tarmouth, and three Merchant men more from Bourdeaux bound for London.

Plymouth, April 18. Yesterday arrived in this Port the Anne Captain Brown, and the Loyal Merchant Captain Risby Commanders from the East-Indies, at the same time sailed from hence the John and Margaret Captain Martin commander for those parts.

Whitchal, April 22. This afternoon his Majesty with the usual Solemnities, being present in the House of Peers, the house of Commons with their Speaker attending him, he was graciously pleased to give his Royal Assent to several Bills then presented to him: after which my Lord Keeper by his Majesties command prorogued the Parliament till the 26 of April next.
