Paris, Oct. 8. On the 1st of this Month the Faculty of Theology of the Sorbonne deputed four Doctors, who accompanied by several others, went to the Principals of the University, who were met in a Body at the Mathurins. The eldest of the four Deputies made a Speech in the Name of his Brethren, and desired the University to adopt and adhere to the Appeal of the Cardinal de Noailles, as the Faculty had done. Then the said Deputies withdrew, and M. Godeau, Rector of the University proposed the Matter to the Deliberation of the Assembly. The first who gave their Opinions urged, that the University, should appeal in their own Name, 1. Because it is a Body so considerable of it self, as not to need in such a Case to support it self by adhering to others. 2. Because the University is independent of and exempt from the Jurisdiction of the Archbishops of Paris. To which the rest concurring, the Rector declared their Resolution accordingly: Which Resolution being drawn up in Form, and read a second Time (according to Custom) in a full Assembly on the 5th Instant, was approved unanimously, in the presence of a great Number of Ecclesiasticks and Monks.
