

Lisbon, April 23. N. S. On the 16th in the Evening the Weymouth, a British Man of War, Captain Johnson Commander, put into Cascais, but went out to Sea again soon after. On the 17th arrived the Durlley Galley, Captain Purvis Commander, which after a short Stay likewise put to Sea again. We have Advice from Galicia, that some Ships of the Spanish Fleet have put into Vigo, and others into Ponte-vedro; and that the Land Forces on board them were set ashore, a great Number of them being sick, and are quartered upon the Inhabitants of the Towns. On the 9th Instant one of the Spanish Transports ran ashore on the Bar of Faro in Algarve: She had on board 30 Soldiers, and but 4 Horses of 12 which she took in at Cadiz, the other 18 having been killed in the bad Weather to ease the Ship. The Sailors ran away as soon as they got ashore, and the Soldiers were sent to Cadiz in Boats.

Edinburgh, April 25. We have had no Advices from Inverness or any other Parts, since those of the 17th Instant, concerning the late Lord Seaforth and others who landed at Kintail. As we have now been three Days without hearing any thing of those Rebels, it is supposed they have been informed of the Dispersion of the Spanish Fleet, and may therefore have re-embarked; for by all Accounts that Part of the Country where they landed could not afford Provisions for their Stay there, and had they advanced, we must have had repeated Intelligence of them. Major General Wightman has sent a Regiment to Fort William, another to Inverness, and reinforced the Garrison of Dunbarton Castle. All the other Dragoons and Foot, (except one Regiment remaining here) can be in one Day's Time at Perth, where a Camp will be formed if there be Occasion.
