

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Saturday December 30, to Tuesday January 2, 1722.

Paris, January 7.

THE Infanta of Spain having set out on the 14th past from Letma, it is believed the Exchange of the two Princesses will be made To-Day upon the Frontiers of France, in the Island where formerly the Conferences for the Pyrenean Treaty were held. The Duke d' Ossuna is taken up with receiving and returning the Visits of the Princes of the Blood and the Ministers here, and designs to leave Paris the latter End of this Month. It is now said he will be succeeded by the Duke de Bournohville whom the King of Spain has named to be his Ambassadour at this Court. The Reconciliation between the Prince and Princess of Conti is chiefly attributed to the good Offices of the Chancellor and the Marshal de Villars. That Prince went on the 5th Instant to his Country Seat de l'Isle d'Adam, where he will remain all this Week. The Sale of the Merchandizes brought by the three Ships belonging to the East India Company which arrived some Months ago is finished, and amounts to about eight Millions of Livres. Last Night a Fire broke out upon the Quay de Gevres, which consumed three Houses; but was extinguished very soon by a Detachment of French and Swiss Guards, who were sent thither for that Purpose. The following Extract of the Advice relating to the Plague received by the Court on the 31st of December, has been communicated to the foreign Ministers.

The Duke de Roquelaure in his Letters of the 12th and 14th of December writes, that St. Genaix and the scattered Houses of the Parish of Affions continue in the same Condition; all those Places are kept carefully blocked up, and 'tis hoped the Distemper will not spread further. At Genouillac, Coocoules, Bournans, la Salle du Gardon, St. Paul la Coste, and Salindres, none have died or fallen sick in several Days. The Distemper does not make any Progress in the Gevaudan, and since the Weather-became cold, it appears to have decreased considerably in all the infected Places. M. de Rothes in his of the 15th, 17th, and 19th, says, the 12th, 13th and 14th of December 13 Persons died at Alais, two of them of Distempers, not contagious. The 8th and 9th six died at Mende, and three at la Salle du Gardon. All the other Places are in a very good Way. Since the 15th died at Alais seven Persons, three of them of common Distempers; and two at Mende the 11th and 12th. The Accounts from other Places continue favourable. Since the 17th nine Persons have died at Mende and seven at Alais. Now and then some drop still at Maryejols. A Man is dead at Salindres, a Woman at la Salle du Gardon, and a Girl at Genouillac, where no Person had died in several Days. The Bishop of Alais writes the 12th and 15th of December, that in the Infirmaries of the Suburbs of Alais there remained but 29 sick, of whom it was hoped one third would recover. A Priest and his Sister who were under Quarantain in the Town are dead. Two old Women are also dead, but without any Marks of the Plague; and two Children among those who are performing Quarantain. M. de Fraile who commands in Mende, writes the 9th of December, that 82 sick remained in the Infirmaries there, Part of whom it was hoped would be cured. The Distemper was decreasing; the last Wang of the Moon had not been so pernicious as the preceeding. 39 Persons who had recovered and whose Houses had been well perfumed, were re-admitted into the Town. M. Gamasy and Jehin, Physicians at Mende, write