To George, King of Great Britain, &c.
The Humble Address of His Protestant Subjects called Quakers in London.

Excellent and Renowned Prince, THE gracious Favour and legal Relief which hath so lately been granted to us, whereby such of our Friends as were subjected to Difficulty Suffering or Hindrance in their Business or Civil Concerns, are now made easy, doth lay us under the greatest Sense of Duty and Thankfulness to acknowledge the same.

The Necessity of many of our Brethren, the mutual Desire of Peace and Harmony in all, Reasons in themselves powerful when exercised only in Human Affairs, but more so when referred to Religious Concerns, were our common Inducement to petition this Relief which the Legislature hath been graciously pleased to grant us; and which, after putting up due Prayers to Almighty God, highly calls for the Tribute of our humble Thanks to the King, whom we justly do esteem Father of his Country, a Lover of Mankind, and Defender of their Civil and Religious Rights, not only in his own Dominions, but also by a Christian Interposition with other Princes on the behalf of their oppressed Subjects.

These are Princely Qualities, in themselves amiable, and which must render the King renowned in future as well as present Annals, and give him the glorious Satisfaction that herein he hath for Partem the Father of the Universe, the God of Peace.

Our earnest Petitions to the Almighty are, that thou, Great Prince, mayst long enjoy the pleasant Fruit of that Peace thou hast been instrumental to establish at Home and Abroad, and with ease and Delight govern a happy, thankful and free People, and by thy Royal Issue transmit those inestimable Blessings to latest Posterity.

His Majesty's most Gracious Answer.

I Thank you for this dutiful Address.
I readily gave my Assent to the Act passed in your behalf, being convinced by your past Conduct, that you would make no other than an Honest and a Conscientious Use of this farther Inauguration given you.

Paris, April 11. The following Advices received by the Court relating to the Plague, have been communicated to the foreign Ministers

The Gevaudan. The Marshal Duke of Berwick writes the 25th of March that the Plague decreases every where. The Duke de Roquelaure in his of the 23d and 26th of March, says, that by several Letters from particular Officers for three Weeks before, it appeared the Country was generally in a better State of Health daily. M. de Rambion writes the 22d of March, that on the 14th four died at St. Genais, and four remained sick in the Infirmaries. There were also four sick at Laurac:
The 20th died a Nephew of the Parish Priest there.
All the Country on this Side of the Line from Rouergue to Auvergne is free from any Contagious Distemper. M. de Iverny in his of the 20th of March writes, that the Country on this Side the Line continues in perfect Health: Several small Places about Alais had been begun to be disinfectad. M. de la Deveze in his of the 17th of March, confirms the good State of Health in the Gevaudan: All the Goods of infested Places were put into Warehouses; he was going to give Certificates for the Goods which were in healthy Places. M. du Vilar writes the 22d of March, that throughout the Vivarais only Laurac and St.
Genais had any Remains of the Distemper. The Diocess of Uzes was freed from it. There were no sick left at Milons and Coreques; and but one at Genouillac who was on the Recovery.
There were some at Sale-Gardon, but, they were like to recover. The Chevalier Damas in his of the 25th of March says the Distemper was ceasing throughout Languedoc. The Bishop of Alais writes the 20th and 23d of March, that since the 20th a Woman and her Child had fallen ill, at a Farm-house where several had died. There was but one sick Person in the Infirmaries. There were none in the Town nor in the Houses of Quarantain.

All was in readiness for beginning the general Quarantain the 25th. M. de Vedrille in his of the 20th of March sends a Letter from Avignon dated the 17th, importing that on the 16th seven Persons died and three fell sick. It was judged the Plague was near ceasing, because the ordinary Distempers began to take their usual Course. The rest of the Comtat was in a better State of Health. The Contagion had made but little Progress at Vedennes, because the Inhabitants had retired into Barracks. The Distemper had broke out anew at Montoux, and had not quite ceased at Sorgues. M. de Launay in his of the 22d of March sends Advices from Avignon of the 16th, importing that there still died seven or eight Persons a Day, but that there were no more than 80 sick in the Hospital: Some dropt now and then in other Places of the Comtat.
The Marquesa de Nogaret writes the 20th and 23d of March, that the Accounts from the Com-tat and even from Avignon were favourable, and that they were in great Hopes the Distemper was on its Decline. Two Jacobin Monks who serve in the Infirmaries there, and had served in those of Marseille and Toulon, gave out, that the Distemper having decreased when the Moon was at Full, they were confident it would cease about the 15th of April. M. de Chabrilan in his of the 26th and 27th of March, says, that since the 19th the Distemper had increased at Avignon, that seven or eight Persons a Day had fallen sick the three last Days, and four died. The rest of the Comtat was not in a bad State of Health. Our Line is perfectly well guarded, and in good Health.
M. de Sasselange writes the 25th of March, that since the 20th seven or eight Persons a Day had died in Avignon. The other Places of the Com-tat were in a pretty good State of Health. M. Dupont, the commanding Officer at Toulon, writes the 21st of March, that there had not been any new Accident at Ollioules, Bessé, La Roque, or Neoules, nor the other Places within the Lines.
