Hambourg, April 20, N. S.

WE have received Letters from Muscovy dated the 19th of last Month, which advise, that the Capighi Bashi who came from the Ottoman Port on a Message to the Czar, having staid some Days at Moscow after he had received that Prince's Answer, was set out from thence on his Return to Constantinople. The Duke of Holstein had also left Moscow to follow the Czar to Petersbourg, where the two Princes of Hesse-Hombourg are arrived: It was rumoured the Czar designed to give one of the Princesses his Daughters in Marriage to one of those Princes, and his Niece the Dutchess of Courland to the other. His Czarian Majesty has given to Prince Dolhorucky, formerly his Ambassadour at the Court of France, the Palace of Baron Schaffinof at Petersbourg; it was not yet known who would succeed that Baron in the Employment of Vice-Chancellor, but it was the general Expectation it would be M. Osterman. It is advised from Petersbourg, that serviceable Seamen were much wanted for the Men of War the Czar had ordered to be fitted out there. Those of the Officers and Seamen who are Foreigners, were desirous to quit the Czar's Service, because they are not paid regularly and were also dissatisfied on other Accounts; but his Czarian Majesty had caused Proclamations to be published, forbidding rigorously the suffering any Person to go out of his Dominions without a Passport signed with his own Hand.
