And to four private Bills.

After which His Majesty was pleased to make the following most gracious Speech.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I Am persuaded, notwithstanding the unusual length of this Session, you will not think your Time has been misemployed in consulting the necessary Means for preserving the Peace and Quiet of the Kingdom, and bringing to Justice some of the chief Promoters of that Confusion which lately threatened the Nation.

The prudent Measures you have taken for our common Security, and your enabling me to defend my Kingdoms against any Designs or Attempts of our Enemies are the most convincing Testimonies of your Fidelity and Affection to me, and of your Concern for the Liberties of my People. Be assured, the Confidence you have reposed in me, shall never be made use of but for their Safety and Defence.

The Papers which have been laid before you, for your Information, and have since been published for the Satisfaction of the World, evidently shew, that the Conspirators had brought their wicked Arts and Practices to such Perfection, that they confidently carried on their traitorous Projects in Defiance of the Law, from an Assurance of their being able to elude it; the Respect and Reverence due to the Law had been lost, and the Tranquility of my People endangered, had not you interposed. This made it necessary for the Legislature to exert itself in punishing such Offenders, whose Guilt is too certain to leave the least Room for Doubt, and whose Crimes are too heinous to admit of any Aggravation.

And
