Falmouth, October 16.

THe 14 instant came in here a Yarmouth Vessel from Milford, the Master speaks of many wracks he saw all along that Coast, and that another Vessel belonging to the same place, was by the violence of the weather sunk by his side. The same day imported here the Ruth of Plymouth from Port O Port, from whence the Master tells us, he came in Company with the Swallow of London a stout Merchant man, and mounted with 18 Guns, Captain Bartchson Commander; that off of the Rock of Lisbonne, they met with an Argiers man of War of 30 Guns, who immediately engaged the Swallow, and had twice boarded her, being as often bravely beaten off, when the night coming on, the Vessel lost Company, and made the best of her way home, it is hoped, that by the favor of the night, the Swallow may likewise have got clear of the Tull, and be on her way home.

Burnstable, October 17. The 14 instant put into this Port by contrary winds the John of Bristol, laden with Trayn Oyle and Fish, together with four other Vessels of this place from the same parts, and laden with the same Commoditie.

Plymouth, October 17. Here are at present some Ships in Port arrived from, or bound to several parts abroad. Yesterday the Rupert Frigate set sail from this Port, having several Merchant men under her Convoy for the Streights.

Venice, October 9. From Ragusa we have Letters, which wholly contradict what our advices from Vienna seemed to mention, of the Revolt in the Ottoman Territories being quieted; but on the contrary, that the Grand Signior, together with the Grand Visier were on their way towards Buzia, where the Grand Signior would continue with his Court, and the Visier proceed to joyn with the Forces that were sent before towards Mecca. There are other Letters which speak of a rencounter between some of those Forces and a party of the Rebels, in which the latter had been worsted, inasmuch, that several of the principal Authors of this disturbance had been taken prisoners, and were now bringing to Constansinople; but of this we must expect a farther certainty. From Dalmatia they write, that they suddenly expected there the new Plenipotentiary from the Port.

Legbarne, October 12. The 5 instant imported here the Dragon Frigate, Captain Herbert Commander from Cadix, having under his Convoy the Martin from London, and the Leopard from Lisbonne, both bound for Venice, together with the Simon and Francois from Westchester. The 9 arrived the African a small English Pink in 9 days from Tunis, where an Algerine had carried in prize a Messina Ship laden with Gunpowder for Spain; Three French men of War were then before that place, but had as yet attempted nothing upon it.

Danzicke, October 15. From Leopol they write, that the King arrived there the second instant, having been received near that place by 10000 Men, who were ready there to attend his Majesty in his march towards the Ukraine; from whence they tell us, that the Cossacks under the Command of Dorofensko, finding the King so resolutely to persist in his intentions of visiting those parts, begin to loose some of their courage, and that Dorofensko himself, seems now to desire things may be fairly accommodated, and not brought to the last extremity; so that it is not doubted, but that the Kings presence there, will meet with the desired success of resetting those Countries in an entire Obedience to this Crown. Here are Letters this week from Moscow, which tell us, that the affairs of those Countries begin to have a more pleasing aspect then formerly, and that it is hoped, a short time may restore them to a general peace and quietness; though our Letters from Vienna continue to tell us, that the disturbance near Mecca is wholly appeased, and that the Forces that were sent that way, are countermanded back, yet our advices from other parts still speak the contrary, and that the disorders there increase daily.

Cologne, October 16. Some days since Monsieur Verjus, his most Christian Majesties Minister in these parts, delivered our Magistrates a Letter from his Master, in which his Majesty assures them of his good intentions, and of his readiness to do them all good Offices, in order to the begetting a good understanding between them and their Elector.

The Marquis de Grana hath lately received new Orders from the Court at Vienna, together with Bills of Exchange for 10000 Rycks-Dollers, for the payment of his late raised Regiment. We are told here that Colonel Stoupe hath obtained leave to raise two Regiments more in Switzerland, for the service of the Crown of France.

Yesterday went hence several Deputies of this Town towards Gelderland, where they are to meet his Excellency the Count de Monterey, Governor of the Spanish Neatherlands, to Compliment his Excellency on the part of these Magistrates, as likewise farther to confer with him, concerning the present posture of affairs; with them is likewise gone the Marquis de Grana, together with the Baron Risaucourt. The Count de Conningsmark raises men apace, and hath compleated several of his Troops, which he sends to quarter in Alstria. Several Passengers arrived from Dorsten, and other parts thereabouts, tell us of above 100 Wagons of Ammunition met on their way to Dorsten from Keyferswaert; it is said, as if the Bishop of Munster was suddenly expected at Breuil, to confer with the Elector of Cologne.

Cologne, October 20. Yesterday the Bishop of Munster arrived at Herl near Mullem, attended by 200 horsemen, whither the Bishop of Strasbourg likewise went the same day; and it is said, that our Elector is also expected there this day. Our Elector continues to buy up vast quantities of Grain, and stops all Corn which is going to Market here, which some people would look upon as an act of Hostility.

We have a report of some Troops expected here from the Spanish Neatherlands. Our Treaty seems now to be wholly at a stand, and no discourse but of a rupture, occasioned by the dayly gathering together the
