by Principle and Affection, as well as by Interest, to your Person and Family.

May your Majesty, secure of transmitting your Crown and Glory to your Royal Progeny, and Happy in seeing the confirm'd Health and Prosperity of every Branch of your Family, long live the Arbiter of Europe; the Patron of the Oppressed every where; and the Common Pather of Protestants: And may your Self enjoy, for many Years in Peace, the blessed Consequences of all your Royal Cares: Reigning over a People duly sensible of their own Felicity; more Reformed from publick and threatning Vices; and more united than ever, in Piety to God, in Loyalty to their Prince, in Liberty to serve their Country, and in mutual Affection one to another.

When the Peace of Europe is threatned, Great Britain cannot fit still indolent and unastive, and neglect the Means that Providence has put into her Hands to repel and refent every unjust Attempt against her.

The vigorous Resolutions of your Parliament have filled the Hearts of this Corporation with the utmost Joy and Satisfaction; and we are firmly perswaded, from your Majesty's indesatigable Care, from the prudent Disposition of your Fleets abroad, and of your Troops at home, that though neither the most solemn Treaties, Faith nor Grati-titude can bind the two aspiring Princes that feek to disturb the Peace of Europe, yet your Majesty, by the Blessing of God, can check the lawless Ambition of the one, and the unjust Deligns of the other: And we do here= by heartily and chearfully promise for our Part, that we will to the utmost of our Power support your Majesty against the Pretender and all your Enemies both at home and abroad, and hope they will foon be convinc'd, that your Protestant Subjects defy the open Menaces, as well as the dark and perfidious Practices of fuch Powers as shall at any time dare to invade our Religious or Civil Rights and Properties.

As Trade is both the Ornament and Support of Great Britain, every Breach into the Fences and Privileges wherewith that is guarded, has always been looked upon as the highest of all Injuries to this Nation.

And fince we see Powers abroad (however opposite in their Views) uniting themselves in Defiance of the most solemn Treaties: When we see our most valuable Branches of Trade usurp'd, our Possessions attacked, and our present happy Establishment in the Protestant Line threatened with an Invasion,
