

your Majesty's peaceable and happy Accession to the Throne of your Royal Ancestors.

The common and (in former Reigns) the unregarded Offers of Lives and Fortunes, are now become the sincere and real Sentiments of a grateful and a happy People; Gratitude obliges us to venture our Lives in Defence of that King, who so early and so gloriously exposed his own to preserve our Liberties; and Prudence directs us to support, with our Fortunes, him who alone can secure them to us.

As we are thoroughly sensible of our present Happiness under your Majesty, who are so zealous for our Religion, so tender of our Liberties, so frugal of our Treasures, and so indefatigable in your personal Care of them all; we have likewise the additional Satisfaction to reflect, that we shall transmit it to our own Posterity, by leaving them under the Care and Protection of your's.

May they early inherit your Majesty's Virtues, and those of your Royal Consort; but may they be long formed by your great Example, and late inherit your Kingdoms.

The following Address having been transmitted to his Excellency the Lord Carteret Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has by him been presented to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive it very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the High Sheriff, Grand Jury, Justices of the Peace, and Gentlemen Freeholders of the County of Tyrone, at an Assizes held at Omagh, the 11th Day of August, 1727.

May it please your Majesty,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, beg Leave to condole with your most Sacred Majesty on the much lamented Death of your Royal Father our late gracious Sovereign, and to congratulate your happy Accession to the Throne of your Ancestors.

Your Majesty has been so gracious as to declare from the Throne, that our Religion, Laws and Liberties, are dear to you, for which we return our most humble Thanks: You have thereby secured the Hearts of your Subjects, and blasted the Hopes of your Enemies; you are the Terror of the one, and the Delight of the other.

Many of our Fellow-Subjects exceed us in Wealth and Power; they enjoy the Blessing of your Royal Presence, which by our distant Situation we are deprived of; but we assure your Majesty, that none of them shall exceed us in Zeal for your Glory, Obedience to your Authority, and Affection for your Person.

Your Majesty's early Valour in the Field has immortalized your Name, pointed out the Man equal to the British Throne: So much Courage and so much Conduct is admired, and would be surprizing to all, were it not Hereditary.

May your Reign be as easy to yourself as 'tis happy to your People; may your Royal Consort live many Years the Partner of your Prosperity, such as your renowned Virtues deserve; may your Royal Issue follow the bright Example of their Ancestors; may your Enemies behold the Felicity of your Government with Confusion and Despair, your Friends with Delight, and your Neighbours with Respect; and may your Majesty, in Length of Days and Glory, exceed your most renowned Predecessors.

The following humble Address of the Mayor, Aldermen and Burgesses of the ancient and loyal Borough of Westbury, in the County of Wilts, has been presented to His Majesty by Francis Annesly, Esq; introduced by the Right Honourable the Lord Paget Lord of the Bedchamber to His Majesty in waiting. Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, do beg Leave to condole with your Majesty upon the Death of our late Sovereign of glorious Memory; and at the same Time to congratulate your Majesty on your happy Accession to the Throne of these Realms, and to assure your Majesty of our unfeigned Duty and Allegiance to your Government.

We, being a trading People, promise ourselves, that under your auspicious Reign, a lasting Peace will be settled in Europe; that the Commerce of this Island will flourish, especially, that Staple Branch of it, the Woollen Manufacture, in which we are particularly concerned, and Plenty flow in upon us; and that such Taxes as are heavy upon the poor Manufacturers will be lightened by your Majesty's princely Goodness and Care of your Subjects.

That your Majesty may long reign over us, and be the happy King of a flourishing and loyal People, shall be the daily Prayers of us, your Majesty's most dutiful and obedient Subjects.

The following Address having been transmitted to his Excellency the Lord Carteret Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has by him been presented to His Majesty, who was pleased to receive it very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the High Sheriff, Grand Jury, Justices of the Peace, Gentlemen Freeholders, assembled together at a General Assizes held for the King's County at Philips-Town, the 10th Day of August, 1727.

May it please your Majesty,

WHILST we condole with you for the Loss of our great common Parent, your Royal Father King George, of Memory ever dear to Protestants; permit us, Great Sir, to approach
