From Dunday November 11. 11 Thursday November 14. 1672.

Wyr [4w, Nove nb. I. Un Lewers of the 25 pastfr in the Atms tell us That they had there the good n wil of the Crown-General Sobietski having unexpectedly fallen upon a body of 20000 Tartars at a place called Try, and his having totally routed them, killing above 10000 of them upon the place, and taking most of their chief Officers prisoners, besides having recovered near 10000 poor Christians they were carrying away Captives. We have yet no certainty what is further resolved upon concerning the proceeding against the Male-contents; the Archbishop of Gnejne remains still at Louitz, the usual place of his Residence, pretending to be unconcerned at the heat of the Nobility against him, and as little, at their having promised 1000 Ducats to him that shall bring his Head into the Leaguer; The Popes Nuncio seems to oppole the Decree of the Dyet for the depoling the faid Archbishop, as do most of the Prelates of this Kingdom, being a thing never known to have been practised heretofore in this Kingdom. We know little of what the Turks do, it is reported their Army is retreated from their Quarters near Caminiec, where, however they have left a sufficient Garrison to secure that place, but hereof we have not any certainty. The Crown-Treasurer is privately retired to Dantzick, where he will, it is faid, continue till matters be better fetled then they are at prelent.

Turin, Nov. 2. In pursuance to the preliminary Treaty concluded between the Duke of Savoy and the State of Genous, his Highness bath given Orders for the restoring Ouada into their hands again in the same condition it was in before, the War; The next thing will be the releasing of prisoners on both sides, so that we may well expect to see a Treaty of peace very suddainly concluded. The Sieur Gaumont, having been here eight days is returned a gain for Genoua, to put the last hand to this work.

Venice, Nov. 5 From Corfu we have advice, That the Proveditor General was come in these from Sea with all the Ships of War of this Republick, Taye only two that are bound for the Levant to Convoy several Merchant Men. From Zant we are told of the very great scarcity they are in there of all kind of Provisions, notwithstanding the Inhabitants of the Morea, have of late supplied them with large quantities of Corn, though against the express Order of the Grand Signior, who had Commanded, that all the Corn they could possibly spare, should be sent for the supply of his Ar-

Vienna, Nov. 6. The 2 instant the Turkish Envoye parted hence on his way home, being extreamly fatished with his Reception here. Our Letters from Hungary confirm the defeat of the Rebels by the Forces under the Command of General Cops; It is faid they have lost all their Infantry, so that they will not be able to make head again againft the Emperors Forces; notwithstanding this victory, we have not been able to get any of the chief Authors of this Rebellion into our hands, the Count Teckeli, who in this Rencounter, Commanded the Rebels, hahaving had the good fortune to escape, though he was very much wounded.

Menty, Nov. 12. From Francfort and the parts thereabouts, we hear of nothing but complaints of the Countrey peoples being quite ruined by the long abode of the Confederate Troops in their neighborhood; on Monday last these Troops passed the Main at Flersheim, and as is said, intend to proceed to-wards the Elector Palatines Countrey, and so for Lorrain or Alfatia, but we have so often had reports like thele, and still nothing of truth found in them, that we know now hardly what to credit. On Tuesday last the Elector of Brandenburgh arrived privately here, and had a conserence with our Elector, after which he returned again to his quarter at Castheimb. We have just now advice that the Confederate Troops will march towards Treves.

Hague, Novemb. 12. His Highness the Prince of Orange, with the whole Army, confifting in about 22 Thousand Men, broke up two days fince from Rosendael, and took his march towards the Country of Liege; yesterday his Highnels was at Turn; hout, 8 Leagues from Antwerp, and thence intended to march by Louvain, Dift, Sieghem, &c. It is fill faid, that his Highnels will draw out part of the Garrison of Maestricht, to reinforce his Army, and then make some attempt upon Masenck, Viset, Gc. now in the possession of the French, in the Countrey of Liege; though others that pretend to have better knowledge of affairs, tell us, that this Army is onely to quarter in that Country, as long as they can, because of the great scarcity of Forage and all kind of Provisions here in Holland; out of Mechelen and Louvain have been drawn about 30 Pieces of Ordnance, which have been sent to the Army; and it is report d here, that the Governor of Flanders hath lately fehr 4 or 5 Thousand Men more to our affistance; fo tha we may now expect to hear fuddainly of some confiderable att mpt. All the Country about Bodegrave, Oudewater, and Gorcum, are mightily infested by the Excursions of the French Troops, who besides have lately out another Dike near Amfterd. m, and by that means spoiled and drowned a great many Houses of Pleasure belonging to the inhabitants of that City, besides other great dammage they will receive thereby; Our Letters from Cologne of the 8 instant tell us, that the Consederate Ar-mes had endeavored to pals the Rhyn at Mentz, but that that Elector having caused several pieces of Canon to be planted on the other side, to guard the Bridg there, the Imperialists had given over those Intentions, and were getting a great many Boats to gether to pass the Rhyn at some other place. We have just now advice, that about 120 Fouriers and Quary termasters of the Prince of Oranges Army, being advanced somewhat too near the French Quarters, 2 party of French fell upon them, and took them all Prisoners, they not making the least relistance.

Cologne, Novemb. 15. The Confederate Armic are certainly passed the Main at Flersheim, near Menre, and as is said, intend to take their way through the Palatinat, though that Elector hath po- [fitively refused them passage, declaring, as is said, that before he will fuffer his Country to be ruined by the march of the faid Army, he shall be forced to desire the protection of his most Christian Majelty; how the Imperialists will proceed hereupon, we must expect to hear. The Mareshal Turenne is still at Weed on this fide Coblent, having caused 7 or 8000 Horse & vised by the Lieutenant of his Highness Guards who to pals the Rhyn there, as it is said he will do, with arrived here, that his Highness was advanced with-the rest of the Army, so soon as he shall find it in three Leagues of this place, upon which he imfitting. We have advice here, of a Skirmish that hath happened, between a small party of French and another of the Brandenburghs, in which the young Count of Donam, was killed with 15 or 16 more.

Bruffels, Novemb. 15 The Prince of Orange is certainly faid to be on his way with an Army of 20000 Men, towards the Country of Liege, though we are this day affured by Letters from Holland, that 8000 of the faid Army are marched back again for Holland, apprehending the French may as the Frosty weather comes in, make some attempt

The Letters from Cologne of the II tell us, That both the Electors of Treves and of Menta had caused their Bridges over the Rhyn, to be broken down, and at the same time, had Commanded all the Country people thereabouts to appear in Arms, to hinder the Confederate Armies from passing them, in case they should for cibly attempt it; upon which the Imperialists have caused a great many Boats to be brought together in the Countrey of Rincam, with intentions to pass the Rhyn there; That the Elector of Brandenburgh had Commanded the Inhabitants of Munfter and Arenbergh to bring in their Contributions, threatning otherwise, to force it from them by Fire and Sword; That Monsieur de Turenne was according to their last advices encamped at weed and that his Artillery was arrived at Honnest. Here is just now a report come to Town of an Engagement between the French and Confederate Armies, but of this we must expect to hear farther.

Ditto, Novemb. 19. Our Letters from Mente of the 10 instant give us an account, that the Confederate Armies had paffed the Main at Flersheim , and were then encamped near Coftern, not far from Menty; and in the mean time we hear that Monfieur de Turenne has passed the Rhyne at Andernach with his whole Army; the news we had some days since of the two Armies having been engaged, proves a mistake; onely this is still said, that the Count of Donaw having with him 15 Horse, happened to meet a imall party of French, who charging each other very smartly, the said Count with several others was killed upon the place. The 16 instant the Prince of Orange arrived at Maestricht, where it is thought the still continues; His Highness hath sent all his Cavalry, being about 10000 Men, under the Command of the Count of Waldeck, towards Grave, and all the Infantry, confisting in 8000 Men, are Commanded back for Holland, to secure themselves against the attempts of the French at home, and are come as far as Bergen op Zoom. About 3000 small Boars are fill kept in a readinels in Holland, on what defign we cannot certainly know. The States have taken 1000 Seamen in their fervice, whose duty is to be to break the Ice, night and day, where It shall be thought necessary to keep off the French. From Vienna they write, that the Rebels in Hungary have been totally routed by the Emperors Forces, Maestricht, Novem. 16. The 13 instant by an Express we had advice here, that his Highnels the Prince of Orange had lodged the night before at Peer, a small Village in the County of Liege, his Cavalry, in all 10000 Men, having been quartered in the adjacent Villages; The same day arrived here the Count Flodorp from Liege, whither he had been Deputed by his Highness, to confer, with the Chapter there, concerning the present Conjuncture, but hardly was he come to Town, when we were admediately took Horse to meet his Highness, our Governor though indisposed, going out in his Coach, and causing all the Cavalry to be drawn out, however, his Highness came not hither that night, but took his Quarter at Laenaken, a League from hence. The next day his Highness, accompanied by most of the principal Officers of the Army, and followed by his Regiment of Life Guards, arrived here; That afternoon was held here a Councel of War, and his Highness having seen the Garrison here drawn out in Battaille, returned again to his quarters. At the Princes being here, two Deputies arrived from Liege to Compliment his Highness, and to make some Overtures for the renewing the Traffick and Entercourse between that place and Here are arrived fome Spanish Auxiliary Troops.. This evening Orders have been given to three Regiments of Infantry of this Garrison, to hold themselves ready to march out upon the first order, they shall receive to that purpose.

Whitehal, Nov. 13. By Letters from Capt. Clark Commanding his Majesties Ship the Nightingal, dated the so instant in Plimouth Road, we are rold. That being in company of the Adventure, the 25 past about 40 Leagues off of Scilly, they heard feveral Guns fired, and supposing thereupon some Ships were in fight, they made up to them by the noise of their Guns; about eight in the morning they discovered three sail, which proved to be two Capers of Flushing, one of 9 Guns and 160 Men, and the other of 8 Guns, and 150 Men, and 3 French Merchant man of S. Maloes, which they had taken that morning. About four in the afternoon the Adventure recook the French man, upon at night the Nightingal came up with that of 8 Guns, and took ber (a new Frigat, is called the Garden of Flushing, and hath been but a little while which the Capers separated; however, about 8 at Sea) The 30 about 20 Leagues off of the Lizard they met with another Dutch Caper of 8 Guns, to whom they gave chace, but the Adventure carrying her main Topmast by the Board, and the Nightingal fpringing her Boltsprit and main Topmait, the Caper escaped. That the second instant the Adventure met with the Caper of 8 Guns, that had been chased the 30 past by the Nightingals and took-her, she belongs to Middleburgh and had Advertisments.
