

or they may be convicted thereof, shall have and receive, for discovering and apprehending the said Henry Rogers, so as he may be convicted of the said Offence, the Sum of Two Hundred Pounds; and for every one of his Accomplices so discovered and apprehended, that he may be convicted of the said Offence, the Sum of One Hundred Pounds, over and above all other Rewards to which the said Person or Persons may by any Act of Parliament be entitled; which said respective Sums, the Commissioners of our Treasury, or our High Treasurer of Great Britain for the Time being, are hereby directed and required to pay accordingly, without any further or other Warrant in that Behalf. And lastly, we do hereby strictly charge and command all our Justices of the Peace, and all other our Officers whatsoever, that they do use their utmost Diligence and Endeavours, in their several Places and Stations, to find out, discover and apprehend the said Henry Rogers and his Accomplices, upon Pain of our highest Displeasure.

Given at our Court at Kensington, the Eighteenth Day of July, One Thousand seven hundred thirty four, in the Eighth Year of our Reign.
GOD Save the KING.

Hague, July 27, N. S. Letters from the Rhine of the 20th Instant advise, that the French having, in the Night between the 14th and 15th, taken by Storm the Crown Work, and since that Time advanced their Works with so much Diligence and Success, that the 16th they were at the Foot of the Counterescarp; and General Wutgenau seeing that there was already a sufficient Breach in the Body of the Place, that the Cannon could no longer annoy the Besiegers by Reason of their Nearness; and besides, that his Garrison was extremely diminished, sent the 17th an Officer to the French Camp to propose to capitulate, which being granted by Marshal d'Asfeldt, it was agreed, that the Garrison should march out with all the Military Marks of Honour, together with six Pieces of Cannon, (and also one which the said Marshal presented the Governor with, in Consideration of his brave Defence) four Mortars, and some covered Waggon, to be conducted to Mentz, being refused to join Prince Eugene's Army, who was then moving towards Bruchsal and Graben. The News published lately here of the Queen of France's being brought to Bed of a Prince, proves groundless. This Day Mr. Walpole arrived here.

Whitehall, July 16, 1734.

Whereas Jeremias Brusford, of Taunton St. James, in the County of Somerset, received on the 14th of March last, a Letter signed Thomas Resolved, John Resolved, and George Resolved, threatening to burn his Corn and Hay, and to knock out his Brains, if he went to Maiden Brooke, an Estate he had lately taken: And whereas on the 16th of March aforesaid, the said Jeremias Brusford received another Letter to the same Effect; as also one on the 27th, threatening to treat him in the Manner above-mentioned, unless he put Twenty Guineas in a Place described in the said Letter: And whereas on Sunday the 17th of the said Month, the said Jeremias Brusford was assaulted near his Dwelling-house by a Person unknown, who gave him a violent Blow on his Arm; and on the Wednesday following was again attacked by Three Persons disguised, who knocked him down, and robbed him of Five Guineas and Fourteen Shillings; and was also assaulted on the 8th of April last, by Three Persons in Womens Apparel, but supposed to be Men, with their Faces blacked, who beat him till they thought he was dead, then robbed him of Fifteen Guineas and Two Shillings; since which the said Jeremias Brusford has had a Stack of Hay set on Fire, and an Ox wounded: His Majesty, for the better discovering and bringing to Justice the Persons concerned in such heinous Crimes, is pleased to promise his most gracious Pardon to any one of them, who shall discover his Accomplice or Accomplices, so as he or they may be apprehended and convicted thereof.

HOLLES NEWCASTLE.

And as a further Encouragement to any Person who shall make such Discovery, as aforesaid, the said Jeremias Brusford does hereby promise a Reward of Twenty Guineas.
 Jer. Brusford.
