Dublin, Dec. 24. His day the feveral Guilds and Corporations of this City by their respective Masters and Wardens, presented Sir John Tottye, Knight, the late Lord Mayor, ( a Person of known Loyalty and integrity to His Majefly) with a Gold Chain of a very confiderable value, as a testimony of their Gratitude. for his Fidelity, during the time of his Mayoralty, in afferting the just Rights and Priviledges of the faid City.

Port mouth, fin. 9. The 7 instant the Plimouth Frigar, Capt. Neve Commander , brought to Spitthead a Durch Fly-boat of 300 Tun, laden with Planks and Timber, which they took near the Landsend, and at the fame time funk another Dutch Merchant-man, after two hours refistance; this latter was very richly laden, and valued by the Dutch them elves to have been worth above 60 000 l. fterling.

Tangier, Nov. 17. This day died here G. Fleetwood, commonly called Colonel Fleetwood, one of those wretches that fate as Judges of His Sacred Majefty, King Charles the I. of Bleffed memory; some time before his death, his Memory and Senles failed him, bat whilst heenjoyed both, he was a constant frequenter of the Church, and expressed himself very penitent for that hainous crime, giving on all occasions, all the Marks that could be wished of a true Convert.

Ditto, 23. His Excellency has sent Major White, and Mr Wollaston with a Present to Gayland, and power to Treat a Peace betwixt him and this Place; on Wednesday the 20. they parted hence for Argilla, from thence they have advice, that Gayland had fent a party of his Morfe from Alcasser, who had brought him in 200 Horfe, and a confiderable number of Cattle. Last night and this morning is come in a Cafila from Tetuan, confisting of near 200 Horfes and Mules, loaden with Mechandifes of feveral forts.

Rome, Decemb. 9. The matter of the Marriage of Donna Livia Cefarini, continues to occasion much heat here, the Parties concerned in it, endeavoring each to vindicate his own interests with a high hand, infomuch, that it is feared, it may produce. dilorder in the Government ; The Patriarch Altovici, for having as is faid, fomewhat particularly concerned himself in this business, had like to have been affaffinated the other night, as he was coming home in his Coach ; wounded he was, and the intention of the Villains was certainly to have dispatched him upon the place, but he had the good fortune to efcape them, having received a fhor of a Piftol in his Neck, though it proves not Mortal; his Holinefs however takes it extreamly to heart, and has Commanded a most diligent learch to be made, for the dilcovering if possible the Authors of this Fact. This Court feems much perplexed with the difference between the Ambassador of Tuscany, and the General of the Church, and fain they would rid their hands of it, as being a matter which may beget a mifunderstanding with the Great Duke, who vindicates the proceeding of his Ambassador in this affair, and feems refolved to have fatisfaction in it; and on the other fide, his Holinels is unwilling to prejudice the right of the General of the Church. The French Ambassador continues with great earnestness his instances, on behalf of Don Felice Rospigliofi, for a Cardinals Cap at the next promotion, which it is not doubted, but he will have.

Venice, Dec. 7. The Corfairs of Tripoli have done us very confiderable dammage in taking feveral of our Ships, and some of them very richly laden ; and belides we have advice of feveral Ships being caft away in bad weather, and amongst others, that on Wednesday last the Ship called the Hope, was lost as the was coming in hither, all the Men that were on board her were drowned, as well Seamen as Paffen gers, the Merchants here fpeak their lofs in this Ship, to be above 50 000 Ducars. By a small Veffel arrived from Conftantinople we have Letters which tellus, That the Grand Signior was returning again to Adrianople, where he intended to re-fide this winter, to the great difheartening of the Inhabitants of Constantin ple, who are already extreamly impoverished by the long absence of the Court, and daily quit that place with their Fami-lies, and go and settle at Arianople; The Grand Vizier remains with the Army, and is making preparations for the bringing an Army on foor the next Spring, more powerful then that which he entred Poland with this Summer ; though as yet we cannot fee any occasion for the employing fo great a Force, unlefs the troubles in Afia, which now begin to break out again, should be fo great, as to require it.

Stockholme, Dec. 7. The 20 inftant is appointed for the determining the prefent Sellion of the States of this Kingdom, when the King will be declared Major, and Crowned with very great folemnity. The Marquis de Monte, who is now hear on the part of Queen Christina, to sollicite her Concerns, hath at length obtained, That her Majesty may when she shall please, come and reside in this Kingdom, and that the shall have liberty to bring with her one Prieft onely, which is what this Government hath hitherto refuled to admit of; The faidMarquis brought with him a Letter from his Holinels to this Regency, to perlwade them to a common League against the Turks, but there being fome usual expressions omivted in the faid Letter, the Regents have refused to receive it.

Warsaw, Decemb. 9. The General Dyet is now affembled here, and those of the Nobility that had not fworn the Treaty of Confederation, have done it in this A flembly; in the mean time the Confederated Army comes marching on with much confidence, infomuch that the King to fecure his Government, has cauled what force he could to be brought together near this place, and amongst others, the Coffacks who have ferved under Hanenko, but thefe Troops do fo ruine and haraffe the Countrey, that it is feared, we shall shortly beleft without Victuals, of which there is already a great fcarcity, fo that the poorer fort begin to make great complaints.
