Harwich, May 5.

Esterday about five of the clock in the afternoon, his Highness was about a mile above the Middle Ground, and not being able to make more way, came to an Ankor there; about the same time we saw the Dutch, in all about 60 or 70 finall and great, they weighed Ankor and stood Southerly, as was thought towards the Longfand, the Wind being Northeaft.

Ditto, 6. From this place we discern the Vantguard of His Majestles Fleet, near the Gunfleet. We hear nothing farther of the Dutch.

Ditto, 6. At night, We have just now advice, that the Dutch Fleet is come into Hoasley Bay, being divided into two Squadrons: and that His Majesties Fleet was this noon about the Middle Ground; and the Fourthrates and Fireships as low as the upper part of the Gunfleet.

Alborough, May 5. Yesterday we discerned the Dutch Fleet at Ankor, between Orfordness and Hoafley Bay, and about the same time we saw several Ships coming out of Sea from the Eastward, which proved The Dutch have again quitted their Station, the wind at Northeast,

Whitehal, May 6. By an Express arrived here this morning, and who came from his Highness Prince Rupert, yesterday between 4 and 5 in the asternoon; we are told that his Highness having sent out several Fregats to discover the Enemy, they returned with this advice, that the Enemy immediately upon their appearance, weighed out of the Gunfleet, and stood Eastward, leaving behind them a small Dogger, which the Fregats took and brought with them into the Fleet; That at the coming away of the said Express, his Highness gave Orders to weigh, with intentions to try what he could make of it, the wind being so very scant.

Dantzick, April 17. The happy conclusion of the Dyet at Warfim, has made a suddain alteration in the affairs of that Kingdom, and raifed the hearts of the people from the disquiet the continual divisions amongst the Nobility had cast them into, to an assurance that they shall with greater ease overcome the troubles that may threaten them from abroad, then they have done those that have so long afflicted them at home; the onely danger they apprehend at prefent, is, from the Turks who some advices tell them, are resolved to invade them this Summer, to compleat the Conquest they began the last, and though there be many sober people that give no credit to this report, yet care is ta-ken to make what Provision they can for the defence and fecurity of the Kingdom; and certainly there is not any thing that makes the Poles avoid a War with the Turks, but the ill posture of their own affairs, which so foon as they shall have recovered, and know themfelves able to engage in a War, it is not to be doubted, but the fence they have of the Treaty they were forced to make the last year with the Grand Signior, fo much to the dishonour of the Kingdom, will make them on their side, desire a rupture with the Port, that a Peace may be established on better and surer terms then now it is; The Czar of Muscowy hath at several times fent to acquaint the King, with the great inclina? tion he has to employ with him all the force of his Empire against the common Enemy of Christendome, which how far that Monarch will manifest, when there may be occasion, time must shew. The death of the Archbishop of Gnesna, has produced several Pretenders to that high preferment, the most eminent in all the Kingdom; the Bishop of Cujavia, has it is said, the Kings promise for it, though we cannot yet learn that he is publickly declared, and till then, there be some others who will not lavafide their hopes,

Franckfort, May 4. From the Elector of Bavaria's Court they write, as if there were some Propositions on foot, for a Marriage between the Dauphin ot France, and the young Princess, that Blectors Daughter; That his Electoral Highness had offered his askistance to the Circle of Franconia, in order to the obliging fuch Troops to retire out of their Territories, as pretend to come and quarter there. We have advice of 22 Vessels that lately passed down the Moselle, towards the Rhyn, having 4000 French Foot in them, and that several Bodies of Horse passed at the same time down that way by Land. The Duke de Bournes wille feems to have intentions of returning with the Imperial Porces under his Command towards Behemia.

Ratisbenne, May 4. We expect here to know the Emperors final refolution concerning the bringing together the Forces of the Empire, before we proceed any farther in that matter; in the mean time the general Officers which are to Command the faid Army, are on their way hither. The Elector of Bavaria affembles his Troops in the Upper Palatinate, between Neumark and Amberg, and has it is faid, already 10000 Man together, under the Command of the Count de Berle, General of Battaille, and Governor for his Electoral Highness of Ingolftat, besides which we are told, of 3000 Foot, and 1500 Horse, which passed some days fince by Ingolftat, and were to joyn with the other Troops; which way his Electoral Highness intends to employ this Force, we cannot as yet parti-cularly know. The Imperial Army Commanded by cularly know. The Imperial Army Commanded by the Duke of Bournonville, was quartered the 27 of the last Month at Saalefeld, the 30 at Gidwien in Voigtland, and the first instant at Posneck, their march being towards Egra in Bohemia.

Cologne, May 6. On Saturday last passed by this place down the Rhyne, 17 Boats laden with French Infantry. This day the Marquis de Grana parted hence for Vicana; the Command of his Regiment here, the Emperor has given to the Sieur de Lyen, Governor of the Fortress of Erhenbreistein. We are now advised from all hands, that the feveral Princes concerned in the Treaty, now to be fet on foot, have agreed that this shall be the place of Conference. We have not of late heard of any considerable action in these parts; Monsieur de Turenne is still with those Troops he hath; now remaining with him at Soeft, having fent a good part of his Army towards Flanders and the conquered places, to joyn with those Troops the most Christian King will Command in Person, and the Prince of Gonde's Army. The French Cavalry quartered in the Countrey of Liege, give frequent allarms to the Garrison of Macstricht, and keep them in such awe, that of late
