consthereabours were all fired, and fires made upon the Steeples to give the neighboring Towns notice of the approach of the Enemy, that fo they might come to their assistance; the Drums beat all night, the Bells rung, as in time of the greatest danger, and the Burgors were called in Arms, feveral Companies of whom, as well from hence, as Dort, and other places were fent towards the Brill, for the fecurity of that place; it is hardly to be faid the great diffraction we were in, our tears transporting us so fat, that many of the Inhabitants began to pack up their Goods, and to remove with their families, some to Delf and the Hague, though as many at the fame time fled hither from thence,

and the relt to Dort and other places. Hague, Aug. 4. Yesterday a great Fleet, confisting, as we reckoned them from the Shore, in 150 fail, appeared off of Sceveling, which we at hirst believed to be our own Fleet, till fome of the smaller Frigats coming as near as they could, fired feveral shot ashore, fome of which took place in the Steeple of the Church there, and fo difcovered our mifiake, and that they were the English Fleet, which the more furprized us because we were but lately made believe, that they had been to destroyed in the late Engagements, that they would not be able to come to Sca again this Summer; though now we may fee how vainly we have been delus ded, with this farther mortification, that the Enemy thus carries fear and confusion all along orr coast, whilft our Fleet, who we were told, was not long fince in fearch of them, lies still to look on, within their Sands on the coaft of Zcaland. This morning about 4 of the clock arrived here the Prince of Orange, and found us in great diforder, the Burgers were in Arms, and feveral whole Families were marching our of Town to other places. In the mean time, all endeavois were ufed to fettle the minds of the People, and to put our felves in the belt pollure of defence, in cafe the Enemy should attempt to Land. The Heer van Haren, is not as yet arrived from Frie fland, nor the Sieus Gockinga from Gronningen, till when, the Sta es General cannot come to any final. refolution concerning the Instructious to be given to their Plenipotentiaries, who are to seturn to Cologne : His Highnel's Life-Guard, being 600 Horse, are come to Rotterdam from Gertrudenburgh, where the Army lies fill encampee.

Answerp, August 4. The Dutch Army continues still near Gertrudenburgh, observing the Motions of the French, who are in the Mayery of the Bojch, and fome Letters fay, that the Prince of Orange upon the news that the inglish Fleet was come upon their Coast, was gone in great haft for the Hague. We do not now ralk to much of Peace as formerly; all our hopes depend ur on the Inftructions the States shall give to their Plenipotentiaties when they return to Cologne, for if 1 pon their arnival there, they have the like disposition, as the other Parties have, towards the carrying on the Treasy, we doubt not but to hear in a short time of a good conclusion of it.; Our last Letters from Germany give us an account, That Monsseur de Turcine semoves not yet from his quarters at Wesglaer, his Army being at prefent composed of 30000 brave fighting Men. The most Christian King is according to our last advices at Mesz, bringing a confiderable Army together in those parts, so that we cannot after all believe, but that the Imperialists will be very cautious of engaging themselves too far. Our Letters from Rotter dam of the third infant, tell us, of the great diforder all the Countrey theseabouts was in , upon the English Fleets appearing upon their Coast, and that the Bur-gers and Bores had been every where put in Armes, and add; as if tome of their Forces were Commun-ded from Geleradeaburgh; to Guard the Coaft; in the most time this news differs very much from what we 1 id not long finds, from thence, viz. That the English Fleet could not come to Sea again this Summer; and what we here very much wonder at, is, I hat the Dutch, who have all along coldus, that they impariently expecied the coming out of the English Fleet, that they might fight them, have fince their being abroad, not thought it fale to flir out of Schonevelt, except it be fome Leagues to look about them, and fo to return again. Our Governor the Count de Monterey is expected in a day or two as we hear at Offend.

Bruffels, August 5. On Thursday last in the Morning, our Governor the Count de Monterey parted hence for Bruges, and the general discourse is, that his Excellency will go as far as Oftend. The Count d'Affentar, Marstre de Camp General of the Forces employed in the tervice of these Countries, is gene to visit the Provinces of Guelderland, Limburgh, and Luxemburgh. According to our last advices from the Hague, the Dutch Plenipotentiaries had not yet received their Instructions, in order to their return to Cologne; In the mean time, the flow proceeding of the States in a matter of this concern, make the people more plainly discover, that though they extremly cefire a Peace, that their Superiors are of a contrar Bind, and it is faid, our Governor likes well they fhould ontinre to be fo; for though we cannot learn what advantage we have got by the War, yet we are affured, that all endeavors are here ufed to hinder the Peace, and tothat end it is given out, that the Queen of spain has at last finally refolved to proceed to a Repture with the Crown of France, in favor of the Dutch, and this perhaps makes them to backward, in contributing towards the Peace; which the contrary Parties with mrch earnefinefs endeavor, and they which feem to fland most in need of it, and indeed pretend to defire it, leaft promote it. We now talk of nothing but the march of the Imperial Army, from whom great matters are etpecied, we reckon them here to be near 40000 Men, and in a word are wanting in nothing for the encouraging the Dutch to carry on the War.

Ojtend, Aug. 5. In our former we told you, that on Monday and Tuefday laft, the English Fleet was within fight of the Dutch, upon the coast of Zealand, not being able to bring the latter to a Battel, norwithland-ing they had the Weather-gage of the English, they keeping still this method, that when the English Fleee flood from them, they ventured out, and followed them fome Leagues, making us here ashore believe, that it was with intention to fight; but no fooner did the English Tack upon them, but they did so too, and retreated into Schonevelt; the English finding nothing was to be done with them, are failed alongit the Dutch coaft to the Northwards, the Dutch in the mean time, unwilling to truft themfelves too far from this place of refuge, keep thanfelves in Schonevelt.
