added, that if this Affair was not taken in Hand unanimoufly, and without any private Views, or if perhaps every one would follow his own Head, it was easy to conceive, that rather Delay than prompt Execution ought to be expected. In divers Conversations with Lewenwolde and Mengden, Ofterman did not fcruple to tell the latter, That if the Affair was managed with good Order, Princels Anne might be Empress herfelf, with this profligate Expression, that the might in Right and Equity pretend to the Suc-cellion, as well as her Children, though it is known to the whole World, that these latter never had nor can have the least Appearance of a Pretension to the Throne of Russia. To Lewenwolde he opened himfelf, that one could not know how Things might turn out, and it might be, that the Princess herself might feize on the Succession, before all her Daughters; to which he added, that the Affair must be done, either by Force, viz. by Letters Patent, or by bringing Things about fo, that the People themfelves should demand it. The Question being put to Ofterman concerning these Projects and Devices, he did own, that all this had been written and proposed by him, out of a well meaning View and Officiousness for Princess Anne, to the End that if there were even no Princes born by her in being, yet the might not meet with any Obstacle from us, as the only lawful Heir; furthermore, that contrary to the laft Will abovementioned, in purfuance of which, he had obliged himfelf by Oath, to caufe the Succeffion to the Ruffian Throne, which upon the Decease of his his Imperial Majefty Peter the Second lawfully belonged to us, immediately to devolve upon us, he not only worked against us when the Cafe exifted, but even in farther Defiance of his Oath, acted against us again upon the Decease of her Majefty the Empress Anne Joannowna; as alio after the Deposition of the Regent, only to gain (Princefs Anne's Favour and Obligation; and thus, preferring his own private Advantages to the publick Happiness of the Empire, setting afide his own Confcience, and abfolutely forgetting the dreadful Judgment of Almighty God, he endeavoured, in the most wicked and unjustifiable Manner, by divers Intrigues, to deprive us of our Paternal Hereditary Right which we are born to, and which in Justice belonged to us by all the Laws of the World. Befides these, Osterman has committed many Offences against our Person, of which he has been convicted as to every Particular in his Examina-Moreover, many other grievous Mifdetion. meanours, tending to the open Prejudice and Ruin of the Empire, have been proved against him : He has been remifs in fufficiently providing, according to his Duty, for the Defence of the Empire, where it was most necessary; he never confulted, as he ought to do, concerning the weighty Affairs of the Empire, with Perfons of Truft and appointed for it, but transacted most of his own Head; in various Cases of the utmost Consequence, he neither would call a great Council, nor fuffer one to be called ; though by his Office he ought to have been the first to make Remonstrances concerning fuch Perfons as were trufted with many and great Expences of the Empire, yet he never looked to it that they should give an exact Account; in Affairs of fuch Importance, as concerned the Prefervation and Welfare of all the Empire, he employed, to the Prejudice of the whole Ruffian Nation, utter Strangers, of whofe Circumitances and Conduct no body ever had fufficient Knowledge befides himfelf; whilft native Ruf-fians in those Cafes were fet afide, only the others were admitted to Rewards, but the Ruffians were abridged in all Profits, nay, rather employed to their Detriment; his Dependents and Adherents he not only recommended on all Occafions for Rewards, but even protected them to fuch a Degree, that he commended their most paultry Services equally to the greatest Merits of others, and when they acted wrong; or neglected any thing to the Prejudice of the Empire, he not only stifled it, but even approved of them and of their Actions, he islued great Sums of Money out of the Treafury of the Empire, and other Offices of the Revenue, without confulting the other Members of the Cabinet Council, but only fent them to their Houses the Resolutions drawn up for their figning; in important Affairs of the Empire, he as often changed his Sentiments, as they were to pleafe others, but not as his iworn Duty and the Intereft of the Empire required ; he burthened and difficiled the Empire by the exceffive raifing of Recruits of Men and Horfes; the Reports that came from the commanding Admirals concerning the State of the Fleet, he did not fend to the Board of Admiralty, but had them all brought to his own House, nor ever communicated to the faid Board those Advices and Papers that formerly had been fent to him; he helped to procure to the late Field Marshal Munich an Ukase, or Letters Patent, for difpenfing him with giving any Anfwer or Account to whomfoever, concerning the Command he had over the Works at the Canal of Ladoga, though he, Ofterman, very well knew that this was an Affair and Pretenfion contrary to the common Laws, against which he ought to have made Remonstrances; he advanced all his Relations, without any Services or Merit; during his Ministry, when he had in a Manner feized the Administration of the whole Empire, he had the Infolence to ruin and to extirpate many ancient and confiderable Ruffian Families, to make many a Man hated and undervalued by the feveral Sovereigns, to caule many to be fent away from Court, and to caufe unheard-of Cruchties and Executions to be committed on high and low, without fparing even the Clergy; to fow Mifunderftanding
