From Tuelday May 18. to Saturday May 22.-1742.

Stockholm, April 27. His Swedish Majesty's Answer, dated the 27th of April 1742, to the Czarina's Manifesto of the 18th of March 1742.

IS Majesty has very unexpectedly been informed, that fince the End of the Cessation of Arms between his Troops and those of Russia, a Manifesto in the Czarina's Name, dated at Moscow the 18th of March last, printed in the Swedish, Finlandish, and German Language, has been dispersed abroad with a dangerous Design of seducing his faithful and devoted Subjects of the Great Dutchy of Finland from that Zeal and Loyalty which they have shewn for Time immemorial towards the King and Kingdom, and under the vain and imaginary Hopes of a free and independent Government, of infecting them with a black and detestable Treason.

There is nothing of which his Majesty can be more affured and convinced, than of the fincere and unshaken Zeal with which all his Subjects, especially those of the said Dutchy, are attached to the Interests of his Royal Person and Kingdom, and of their Hatred and Aversion to all those who would set the least Blot upon their Honour, their Oaths of Allegiance, and their Consciences.

So that his Majesty has no Occasion to exhort his faid Subjects not to give the least Attention to fuch false Suggestions of the Enemy, as have no other View but to break the Union, the Effects of which they so justly dread at present.

All the World too fees clearly upon what a flight and treacherous Foundation the deceitful Promises made on the Part of Russia are built, and that to give Credit to them would be falling into a Snare and plunging themselves in Ruin.

The Government of Russia has formerly in the same Manner stirred up Troubles and Seditions in different Parts of its Neighbourhood, by giving flattering Hopes of a free and independent Government. But those Provinces saw themselves greatly deceived, as soon as they felt the Muscovite Yoke laid upon them, and themselves reduced to submit to the Servitude and Slavery of that Government. Witness Great Novogrod and the Ukraine, which still groan under their Chains, with little Hopes to this Moment of being delivered from them.

His Majesty having made a Deposit of his Power in the Hearts of his Subjects, only permits them with all Royal Grace and Clemency to enjoy the Sweets of their Liberty, and of the Form of Government which they themselves have chosen and desired. Their Prosperity is dearer to his Majesty than any Thing in the World, and he has nothing so much at Heart as to see them safe and secure from all the Insults of their Enemies.

And therefore they themselves certainly cannot but look with Horror and Disdain upon an Exchange of Liberty for Slavery, of Security of Life and Fortune, for Fear and perpetual Danger of being facrificed to the Humours of a vio- be reekoned amongst the latter.

lent and tyrannical Government, of which the History of all past Times has given full Proof, and of which they themselves have had daily Examples before their Eyes.

His Majesty hopes, with the Protection and Aid of the Almighty, not only to defend and protect his Great Dutchy of Finland, but also to recover the Barriers to it that have been usurped by the Enemy fince the last War: And therefore the Insolence of the Russians threatening to ravage the Country, and lay all waste with Fire and Sword, will have no other Effect, but to excite and inflame the Hearts of his faithful Subjects in Finland fo much the more to endeavour to quell the cruel and infolent Spirit of the Enemy, by their usual Courage and Valour: And for this End it is, and to prevent the Execution of his fanguinary Projects against the said Dutchy, that his Majesty's Armies and Fleet are going to fearch for the Enemy in his own Country, as foon as the Seafon will allow of it, though his Majesty however, in pouring his Troops into the Enemy's Country, will not fuffer them to deviate from the Laws of Humanity and Christianity.

It is in this Manner, that his Majesty, resting entirely upon the Hearts of his faithful Subjects, is very fure that neither the Enemy's Artifices, nor Force, nor Promises, nor Threats, will be able to distolve the Bond, which an entire and mutual Love and Confidence has fo firmly cemented between his Majesty and them, and which his Majesty is always ready, if Occasion requires, to feal with his own Blood and the Loss of his precious Life.

His Majesty sees with Astonishment, that in the faid Manifesto of Russia, it is laid down for a Truth, that the War is unjust on the Part of Sweden; that the Czarina, from the Time of her Accession to the Crown, had sufficiently shewn her Inclination for Peace in the Manner expressed in that Manisesto; and that the present War did not begin with the unanimous Consent of all the States and Subjects of Sweden. His Majesty, in his Declaration of War of the 24th of July last Year, and by the Motives thereto printed and published, has given to the whole World convincing Evidence of the Haughtiness, Injustice, and intolerable Conduct of the last Governments in Russia towards his Majesty and his Kingdom, the Reasons therein alledged are so strong and evident, that the Court of Russia it felf was not able to refute them. But over and above this, his Majesty still intends to cause to be printed a circumstantial Relation of the whole, leaving all the just and equitable World to judge, whether this Conduct of Russia has not been more cruel and insupportable to Sweden, than even a declared and open War.

The present Czarina, on her Accession to the Throne, acknowledged her felf immediately in express Terms in her Declaration, that the Conduct of the preceeding Government had occasioned all the Disturbances both within and withous Russia, and certainly the War with Sweden must

It is very true, that the Czarina, at the Beginning of her Reign, demanded a Cessation of Arms, protesting that she would not stain it with the Essusion of Swedish and Russian Blood; and that she even assured the General in Chief of his Majesty's Armies in Finland, that she would readily come into all that was just and reasonable in the Negociation of a Peace with Sweden; but his Majesty, notwithstanding the repeated Instances on his Side, has not yet been sensible of the least Essect of them. On the contrary, the Cessation of Arms was broken on the Part of the Muscovites, notwithstanding that France had already undertaken the Mediation at the Requests of the Czarina herself.

His Majesty, who takes for the only Foundation and Principle of his Actions Integrity and Sincerity, was sincerely inclined to such Negociations of Peace; for which Reason not only the Armistice was accepted, but, besides this, his Majesty's Armies, after having already pass'd the Frontiers of Russia, returned into Finland, notwithstanding the favourable Opportunity they had of advancing farther on, and of attacking the Russian Army, which after the Loss it had suffered at Wilmanstrand, had been obliged to retreat.

His Majesty, who can, in every thing, rejoice in the Testimony of a good and clear Conscience, and who, out of a natural Inclination for Peace, has always been, and is still ready, as far as it may be consistent with the Honour and Security of his Kingdom, to extinguish the Fire of War in its Beginning, and to prevent its spreading, leaves his Cause, with a sirm and assured Heart, in the Hands of the Almighty, who, according to His divine Justice, will never leave Injustice and Violence unpunished.

As to what remains: In Answer to the indecent Infinuations of the Russians, concerning a pretended Difference between the King and the States of the Kingdom, with Regard to the Refolution of declaring War, his Majefty can graciously assure, by these Presents, all his faithful Subjects, that from the Minute that the haughty and violent Infractions of the Court of Russia, contrary to Promises, Treaties, and the Law of Nature and Nations, were laid open to the States of the Kingdom, they did themselves unanimoully resolve (according to the Decree of the Diet) to advise his Majesty, with all Submission, to take Arms against that proud and insolent Enemy; so that, far from any Division or Discord, they all shewed themselves ready, and determined to support his Majesty in this War with their Lives and Fortunes. His Majesty knows very well, that the Fortune of Arms, together with the Progress and End of the War, depend entirely and folely upon the Providence and Bleffing of the Almighty; it is accordingly thereupon that his Majesty relies, and places his only Hope, not doubting in the least, but that his faithful Subjects, as well in Sweden as in the Great Dutchy of Finland, in Imitation of their worthy Ancestors, and like brave Swedes, will shew this vain and insolent Enemy, that Union, Courage, and Valour, do still, under the Blesfing of God, animate their Hearts to revenge the Violences and Injustices done to their dear Country; to the End that after having put the Frontiers of the Kingdom into a Condition not to apprehend any farther Hostilities, they may afterwards, in all Prosperity and Security, enjoy the Comforts of a solid and lasting Peace. Done at Stockholm, the 27th of April, 1742.

Friederick.

The Apprehen-Constantinople, March 29. fions of an Invafion from the Schaugh of Perfia have been shewn very clearly here, by the making of such Dispositions as if a War was actually declared. It is some Time since two Osticers were appointed for gathering together, one the Forces of Alia, and the other of Europe, and Orders were dispatch'd at the same Time, that those Troops should get themselves in Readiness with all Expedition possible. Some Chambers of Topegees or Gunners, and Gibigees or those who have Care of the Ammunition, are already gone from hence. The Tartar Han is here to affift at the Deliberations upon the present State of Affairs. He arrived on the 27th. The Vizir went to meet him with the usual Solemnity, and accompanied him at his Entry. The Hungarian Resident has had an Audience of the Vizir to deliver a Letter from the Queen his Mistress. One of the Swedish Ministers the Baron Hopken, is gone from hence on his Way to Stockholm. Count Finochetti has also taken Leave of the Foreign Ministers, and will depart in a few Days. The Captain Pashau is not yet departed for the White Sea, nor is it known when he is to fail; two Ships of War failed thitherward Yesterday. Ships are expected here from Marseilles soon. The Commerce has armed two Ships for the Convoy of the Trade out and home.

Constantinople, April 8. The Vizir's Answer to the Queen of Hungary's Letter is said to be in very civil Terms, and to give the strongest Assurances of the Resolution of the Porte to observe their Treaties most religiously. The Preparations for War go on with all possible Expedition. Munif Effendy, the Ambassador from the Porte to the Schaugh, returned hither the 30th. The Letter he was charged with from the Persian to the Sultan was read in a great Council of all the Orders the 3d, the Contents of which are varioufly reported. It is now three Days fince the great Master of the Horse was sent to Ali Pashau, Beglerbey of Annatolia, and formerly Grand Vizir, with the Commission of Commander in Chief, with the present of a Sabre and Vest, and also with a Sum of Money for the Use of the Army. Some Ships departed from hence this Spring are defigned to transport Soldiers from Salonica and Alexandria to Scanderoon. It is doubted whether the Janissaries of this Place are to make the Campaign, tho' several of their Officers are sent to command the other Troops. The Army is to be affembled at Cars.

Petersbeurg, April 24. To-morrow being the Empress's Coronation-day, it will be magnificently celebrated here. Count Golovin is to do the Honours of the Court at the Palace. There is afterwards to be a Ball, and the Feast will be concluded with Illuminations, Fire-works, &c.

Vienna, May 12. Prince Lobcowitz has taken fome Prisoners and a considerable Magazine at Strakowitz. The Hungarians lest to guard the Passes between Moravia and Upper Silesia, amount, with four Battalions of regular German Foot, one Regiment of regular Hussars, and two Regiments of regular Horse, to 18,300 Men, independently of the Peasants, who are said to amount to 10,000.

Paris, May 26, N. S. The Court here has received Advice by an Express, dispatch'd from the Field of Battle near Chrudim, the 17th of May, the Day of the said Battle, That Prince Charles having attack'd the King of Prussa's Army at Seven in the Morning, the Prullian Cavalry had been entirely beaten and put to Flight by the Austrian Horse, and that their Huslars made themselves Masters, during the Action, of all the Prussian Baggage, even that of the King, and carried it off. But that the Prussian Foot having maintained themselves in their advantageous Post, Prince Charles, who is said to be flightly wounded, had caused a Retreat to be founded at Eleven in the Morning, and retired in good Order without being pursued a single Step. The said Prince however left five Pieces of Cannon behind him. The Courier having crossed the Field of Battle, adds, that there might be on both Sides about 5 or 6000 killed, and that the two Armies were pretty near equal in Number, viz. each confifting of upwards of 30000
