

Town. The Enemy made a Salley but were repulsed, and several of them, with the Town-Major, killed. Things being in this Situation, General Bernclau was making Preparations for an Escalade, but was prevented by an Offer of Capitulation from the Town. It was demanded on the Part of the Besieged, that the same Terms should be granted to the Garrison of Egra, as to that of Ingolstadt; that all the French Prisoners in Hungary, Bohemia, Moravia, Aultria, and Bavaria, should be sent back; and that he, General Bernclau, should not diminish his Army before the Town; the Meaning of which is supposed to be, that no Part of it should be sent to Italy; and if, upon these Conditions being granted, the Commandant of Ingolstadt, Marquis de Granville, was not succoured by the first of October, he would surrender the Town to the Austrian General. This last Article was agreed to, but the Capitulation was signed without any Mention of Egra, or the French Prisoners, excepting those in Bavaria, who are upwards of 800, and 250 of them sick. The Garrison at Egra is in Health, but there is a great Mortality in Ingolstadt. The Queen goes out again, for the first Time after her Lying-in, upon the 13th.

Hambourg, Sept. 17, N. S. The Swedish Senators, M. Lowen and Wrangel, who have been appointed to attend the Bishop of Lubeck to Stockholm, arrived here from Stralsund the 10th Instant, N. S. The next Morning they were introduced to their Audience of the Prince, to which they were conducted in his Royal Highness's Coach and Six Horses, preceded by a Coach and Six, in which were two Gentlemen of the Bishop's Court, and followed by a Coach likewise with Six Horses, in which the Swedish Chamberlain Barch, carried the Act of Election and Succession, sealed with the respective Signets of the four States of Sweden. The Senators were afterwards reconducted to their Hôtel with the same Ceremony. Yesterday about Eight in the Morning, the Bishop of Lubeck set out from this Place with a numerous Attendance for Stralsund, there to embark for Sweden. His Highness was accompanied by his Brother, the Prince Coadjutor, the Swedish Senators, the Grand Marshal of his Court of Eutin, M. Pleffe, &c. and he was escorted by several Gentlemen, who are attached to the Court of Holstein, as far as Rheinbeck, about three Leagues from Hambourg. These returned to Town in the Evening, as did M. Heinzon, the Minister from the Court of Russia, and the Holstein Resident, who had likewise attended upon his Royal Highness to Rheinbeck. The Cannon were fired from the Rampart of Hambourg, as is usual upon such Occasions.

Hague, Sept. 20, N. S. Several Letters from the Empire advise, that the Town of Egra capitulated the 6th Instant; that the Austrian Forces took Possession of some of the Gates the Day following; and that the French Garrison surrendered themselves Prisoners of War, and were conducted to several Fortresses in Bohemia, on the 10th, 11th, and 12th.
