Constantinople, August 12.

THE Porte, besides the Military Preparations for Persia, which still go on, has got a young Prince to oppose against the Shaugh. He is given out to be either the late Shaugh's Son, or Nephew, but is believed to be neither. He has lately had great Honours paid him here, and is already conducted into Asia. He is to proceed towards Persia, and to be supported by a good Body of Troops. 'Tis hoped that by this Means some Defection or Division may be occasioned amongst the Shaugh's People. 'Tis assured, but kept very secret by the Porte, that the Shaugh's Troops have already made an Incurfion upon the Frontier of this Empire, and that they have begun Hostilities by the Sieze of Kerkute. The Plague makes great Havock this Year amongst the Franks, whilst the Turks are in a Manner free from it.

It is said the Spanish empty Shebecks met the Men of War and had put back, and taken Refuge again in the Port of Civita Vecchia, where, at the Departure of the Letters, they remained; as did his Majesty's Ships before that Port.
