Stockholm, October 5, O. S.

YESTERDAY the Princess Royal made her publick Entry into this Town, in the same Order as the Prince Successor did his some Time since.

Naples, Oct. 6, N. S. The Signals, which for some Weeks past have been kept out at the Castle of St. Elmo, to discover the Approach of any Ships of War, have been taken in, and the Feluccas and other light Vessels, which on that Account had been sent to watch, are returned to the Port. In the last Week 200 Waggon, and as many Mules, loaden with Provisions and military Stores, were sent from this City to the Army at Velletri, and other large Quantities are collecting for that Purpose.

Rome, Oct. 10, N. S. On the 5th, several Waggon with Regimentals and Stores passed near the Walls of this City from Pesaro to the Austrian Camp. The Armies continue in their usual Situation, notwithstanding the Motions which for many Days past have been observed in them for a Decampment.

Florence, October 13, N. S. Prince Lobcowitz remains with his Army in his Camp near Nemi. The Imbarkation of the Invalids is deferred, the extreme bad Weather and contrary Winds having obliged the Men of War that were destin'd to escort them, to put into the Port of St. Stephano, where by the last Letters upon the 10th, they were still detain'd. The Prince apply'd to M. de Gages for a Safe-guard for the Sick, but it was refused him. A Courier that arriv'd Yesterday from the Austrian Camp brings Advice, that the last Milan Courier that pass'd by this Place, had been intercepted by a Party of Spaniards near Acqua Pendente, who took from him all his Letters, and, as is reported, Ten thousand Sequins consign'd for the Army. The Spaniards gag'd the Courier, and ty'd him to one of the Wheels of his Chaise, having carried away the Horses and Postillion, in which Situation he remained nine Hours, till he was released by some Passengers. This Accident was owing entirely to the Courier's having, contrary to what has been practis'd of late, taken the direct Road to Rome instead of going by Arezzo. A Courier pass'd by this Place last Night, dispatched by General Pallavicini to hasten Prince Lobcowitz's Retreat. By the late Dispositions it appear'd as if he design'd to halt some Days at Viterbo, for which Purpose Provisions are lodged there, but No-body is yet inform'd what Route he intends to take, as that will depend upon the Motions of the Spaniards and Neapolitans, who will, it is thought, follow him. Upon the 3d Instant Forty five Men of the King of Naples's Regiment came over to the Austrian Camp under the Conduct of some Quarter Masters, who were immediately made Lieutenants. The Men had Passports given them and were sent away. In the Night of the 4th, a Detachment of 150 Men march'd privately from the Austrian Camp and surpris'd the Post of the Enemy at Valmonti, consisting of about 200 Men under M. Portocarrero, who in last June desert'd from the Austrians, and acquainted the Spaniards with the Word given out that Night by the Austrian General, which was the Occasion of the Loss the Queen's Army suffer'd at Mount Artemisio. The Officer refus'd Quarter and was killed; his Lieutenant having fired both his Pistols, and being without any more Balls, loaden one of them with the Rammer, and shot himself. The other Lieutenant was taken Prisoner, with 164 Men, the rest were killed. The Dispositions for embarking the Austrian Invalids at Lirici, have for a third Time been changed. It is now determin'd to debark them at the Mouth of the River Arno. The Number of the Sick a Month ago amounted to 2500.

Vienna, October 12, N. S. Marshal Seckendorf has taken Donawerth, but not without the Loss of 600 Men. He is supposed to have cross'd the Danube, and to be advancing up the Lech, if he has not already pass'd it; on account of the Lowness of the Water in the present extreme dry Season. In which Case, M. Bernclau will, it is apprehended, have been oblig'd to retire to the Iffer.

Vienna, Oct. 17, N. S. A Courier arriv'd Yesterday from Prince Charles with Dispatches of the 14th Instant, by which it appears, that the Prussians were still at Tabor and Sobieslaw; that their Motions were the slower, as they march in a Kind of a square Battalion, with their Artillery and Cavalry in the Center; that their Horse was in a miserable Condition for Want of Forage; that when they march'd from Teyn, they were reduced to half a Pound of Bread to each Man, which short Allowance has now continued for eight Days, the little Magazine they have at Tabor not furnishing more. Baron Trenk with his Irregulars has attack'd Teyn, where there was still some Cannon, with four Battalions, and the Prussian Body of Hussars call'd Death and Destruction; the Infantry sav'd the Cannon, but 400 of the others were put to the Sword by Trenk, who is gone up the Muldaw to clear Budeweis. Count Ghilani extends in Parties from the Muldaw to Newhaus. General Nadasti, in like Parties, from Kostelez upon the Muldaw to Yung Worschitz. The Prince himself is supposed to have pass'd the Muldaw at Worlik, and to have encamp'd Yesterday at Clumetz, while General Festetitz, with his Hussars, keeps the Plunders from stirring out of Prague with their Booty, collect'd out of the Houses of those who are absent. The Prussian Artillery in Prague is said to consist of 32 large Cannon and
