Moscow, November 12.

M. D'Allion is arrived at Petersbourg. Count Rosenbergs Audience of the Empress is appointed for the Day after To-morrow. The Grand Duke is said to be pretty well again, but has not as yet appeared in Publick.

Riga, Nov. 21. This Day arrived here in his Way to Petersbourg, the Right Honourable the Earl of Hyndford, his Britannick Majesty's Minister to the Court of Russia, and proposes to pursue his Journey on the 23d Instant.

Stockholm, Nov. 23, O. S. His Swedish Majesty has voided a few small Stones, and is much easier as to his Gravel; but another Disorder has succeeded, which is a Looseness accompanied with a little Fever. His Swedish Majesty rested very ill last Night. Yesterday Evening M. Laumary, the French Ambassador, gave a grand Entertainment and an Illumination, on Occasion of the Princess Royal's Arrival here.

Stockholm, Nov. 27, O. S. By the last Post we had an Account of the Death of the Princess of Hesse, which has very much grieved his Swedish Majesty, who is perfectly recovered of his late Indisposition of a severe Fit of the Gravel, and appears again in Publick. Some Days ago died here Major General Count Dokna, by which the Regiment of Horse Guards, of which he was Colonel, is become vacant.

Faro, Nov. 24. His Britannick Majesty's Ships the Rupert and Guernsey were off of this Port the 21st Instant. They are come from the Mediterranean, appointed by Admiral Rowley to serve on the Gibraltar Station, and with the Frigats and Sloops that were on the same Station before, are to form a small Squadron to cruise in these Seas; where the Rupert, Captain Ambrose, who is the Commodore, has already taken several Prizes of Value, as also sunk a French Privateer from Cadiz, of 14 Guns, and 80 Men, 55 of whom were saved, and the rest drowned.

Vienna, Dec. 10, N. S. A Courier is just arrived from Prince Charles, with Advice that the Combined Army marched on the 26th past, in order of Battle, but that upon the Appearance of the Avant-Guard, the Prussians went off to Neustadt, from whence it was supposed that they would separate into two Bodies, the one to go into Silesia by Braunau, the other into the County of Glatz. The Combined Army intended to follow on the 28th. A Courier is likewise arrived from General Bernclau, with Advice, that he had dislodged the Bavarians from the Heights on this Side of the Saltza, having killed about 200 of their Men, and thrown some Bombs into the Town of Burkhaufen, to punish the Burghers for their late Treachery.

Vienna, Dec. 5, N. S. General Bretlach, who left Prince Charles upon the 5th Instant, is arrived here, and brings Advice, That the Prussians, separated into five Bodies, were retired out of Bohemia by Tratenau and Brandau into Silesia, towards their great Magazine at Schweidnitz; that 4000 had been sent, with the greatest Expedition, to guard the Bridge of Glogaw for Fear of the Insurgents; that the Retreat was a real Rout; that their Rear Guard suffered a great deal from the Hussars; that 15 Field Pieces have been taken, and all Sorts of Baggage; that there had been 9000 Deserters since the Passage of the Elbe; that the Queen had 8200 Prisoners in all upon her Hands; that amongst the Deserters 5000 at least, Subjects of Silesia, Moravia and Bohemia, have offered themselves voluntarily for Recruits; that, in a Word, all the Prisoners and Deserters agree, that the King of Prussia must find a Diminution in his Army of 40,000 Men, exclusively of those who went out of Prague, and of whom a good Account is expected daily from the Chevalier de Saxe, who was detached upon the 28th of November, from the Combined Army, with 1000 Uhlans, 1000 Dragoons, 1000 Grenadiers, and 2000 Foot, to intercept them; that by the said Flight of the five separate Bodies above-mentioned, the County of Glatz was left destitute of Men, excepting three Battalions that were in the Castle of the Town of that Name, so that some of the Austrians had already entered into that County, whilst the Adjutant Buckow was actually arrived at Joannesberg with 1500 Men on the other Side of Glatz, and is to be followed by three Corps successively, and as fast as can be done conveniently through such Defilés, the last of which Corps is to be commanded by the Prince himself. This Liberty of entering upon the Prussian Estates has made the Troops less desirous of Winter Quarters in Bohemia, and the Duke of Weissenfels has taken upon himself to form a Cantonnement from Jaromitz, directly up to Lusatia, and Prince Charles's is to extend from Konigsgratz, through the Mountains in and round Glatz into Silesia, and be there joined by the Insurgents. The Castle of Glatz is thought by the Inhabitants to be upon the Point of being abandoned by the three Battalions that are in Garrison there. This Opinion arises not only from certain Motions observ'd in the Castle, but from the Incident of their Magazine of Meal being entirely corrupted, of which the Burghers have brought
