Doncaster, Dec. 8. The Horse and Dragoons of Marshal Wade's Army are in this Town, and the Foot at Ferrybridge.

Merriden, December 9, Six in the Morning.

Yesterday Morning his Royal Highness put himself at the Head of all the Horse and Dragoons, and a Thousand Volunteers, to endeavour to stop the Rebels, and give the Foot Time to come up; but we hear that they are retiring Northward with great Precipitation.

Sir John Ligonier is this Moment marching from hence with the Brigade of Guards and Sempil's Regiment to Litchfield.

Litchfield, Dec. 9. Our freshest Accounts concerning the Progress of the Rebels are of last Night. By them we learn, that an advanced Party had reached Manchester at Eleven at Night, and that the main Body of them marched out of Leek Yesterday Morning. Some small Parties of them had raised Alarms at Newcastle; and we hear that they do more Mischief now in the Country, than when they came.

His Royal Highness is here with all the Cavalry, and a Body of Foot mounted, and preparing to continue his March in Pursuit of the Rebels.

War-Office, Dec. 10, 1745.

Whereas it hath been represented to his Majesty, that many Non-Commission Officers and private Men have deserted from the Regiments or Corps to which they did formerly belong, and have since enter'd themselves in other Regiments or Corps in his Majesty's Service, where they continue; his Majesty is therefore graciously pleased hereby to grant his Pardon to all such Non-Commission Officers, and private Men, who shall have deserted as aforesaid, before this Tenth Day of December 1745, inclusive, and are now in any of the Regiments or Corps in his Majesty's Service. And his Majesty is likewise pleased to declare, That it is his Royal Intention that they shall continue in the same Regiments or Corps they now are, without being molested or claimed by the Officers of the respective Corps to which they did formerly belong.

By his Majesty's Command,
Will. Yonge.
