

Constantinople, Nov. 2. The Peace between this Empire and Persia was published here, and notified to all the Foreign Ministers on the 24th past, by the Porte's Interpreter, who said in general, that it was concluded upon honourable Terms for the Porte, and that Ambassadors would very soon be interchanged. It is since said, that the Frontiers are to stand in the same Manner as was agreed upon in the last Peace in Sultan Ibrahim's Time. On the 28th M. Benkler had his Audience of the Sultan, as Internuncio from their Imperial and Catholick Majesties. Advices from Candia mention, that upon three French Men of War coming there, and wanting Provisions, the Populace was ready to mutiny, and insisted upon the Bashaw's not suffering them to buy any. Upon the Bashaw's saying, he left it to them, the Coast was soon lined with Janisaries; and some of the French attempting to land to get some Water, not knowing of the sudden Resolution taken ashore, they were fired upon, the Turks declaring they should have none, and bidding them go to Cerigo to seek it. Orders are given for a Vizir Aga and others to set out from hence to meet his Britannick Majesty's Ambassador at Belgrade. The new Dutch Ambassador is expected here in the Spring.

Nice, Dec. 4, N. S. General Brown, with the Army under his Command, having passed the Var on the 30th of last Month, the French immediately retired from their Camp at Grace; and the Inhabitants of St. Paul having since submitted themselves, all that District (or Viguerie) is in the Power of the Austrian General.

Berlin, Dec. 10. His Prussian Majesty has given General Ginckel a large Gold Snuff-Box set with Diamonds, and his Majesty's Picture. The King has also conferred the Dignity of a Chamberlain upon M. Ammon his Resident at the Hague, and augmented his Pension with 2000 Rixdollars per Annum for Life, and has named him his Minister Plenipotentiary to their High Mightinesses.

Berlin, Dec. 20. The King of Prussia and all the Royal Family are in good Health. His Majesty is to go the latter End of next Week for some Days to Potzdam. Count Bredow, formerly at Vienna, who was first made Grand Master of the Wardrobe, and afterwards Chief and President of Justice in the room of the late Baron Dankelman, has resign'd that Employment, which his Majesty has conferred upon M. Bismark, Chancellor of Custrin.

Copenhagen, Dec. 17. This Court having considered the Reports from Bergen concerning the Conversion of an English Prize into a French Privateer, is going to dispatch Orders to put a Stop to all such Equipments in the Ports of Norway for the future. By a Letter from his Britannick Majesty's Consul at Elsenore we are just informed, that the Convoy and Merchant Men bound Homewards, who have been detained some Time in the Sound by contrary Winds, were all under Sail Yesterday with a fair Gale for passing the Categat.

Copenhagen, Dec. 20, N. S. On the 16th Instant Count Reufs was married here to the Marquise de Monteleone, Grand Daughter of Count Gyldenstein. The 18th having been the Anniversary of the Queen of Denmark's Birth-Day, was celebrated this Year very privately, by Reason of the Publick Mourning; but the Court was extremely numerous, and the following Promotions were made on that Occasion, M. Frederick Holstein, Brother to the late Grand Chancellor of that Name, Count Lynar Bailiff of Steinberg, Baron Dehn, M. Berkentin Bailiff of Pinnenberg, M. Massau Bailiff of Appenrade, were all gratified with the Title of Privy Counsellors: Count Ahlfelds of Langland, Count Raben, and M. Von Stocken, received each of them the Key of Chamberlain. A Contract of Marriage was declared between M. Mæsting, one of the King's Chamberlains, and Mademoiselle Schack, Maid of Honour to the Queen.

Hambourg, Dec. 23. The Imperial Minister, or Internuncio, at Constantinople, has had his publick Audiences there, notwithstanding the Intrigues and Opposition of France, and even attended with some Circumstances of Distinction, and with some Prerogatives, which the Porte hitherto had allowed only to the Character of Ambassador. And it is farther remarked, that this Audience was given a Fortnight after the Publication of Peace between the Turk and Persian.

Hague, Dec. 16, N. S. His Royal Highness the Duke arrived here in perfect Health in the Night between Tuesday and Wednesday last, and was the next Morning complimented by a Deputation from their High Mightinesses Assembly, with the President of the Week at its Head, whom his Royal Highness had condescended to prevent with a Visit some Hours before; and there has been ever since, the greatest Affluence of Persons of the first Rank, both in the Government and Army, to make their Court to his Royal Highness. His Royal Highness dined the same Day with the Prince of Waldeck; honoured Mr. Trevor with his Presence at Dinner Yesterday; and to Night partakes of a Ball and Supper with the Ambassador of Russia. His Royal Highness designs to go in a Day or two into the Hotel de Frise, which the Prince of Orange has offered him; and has ordered a Part of his Equipages hither from Breda. By some Letters from Paris, the French Army in Provence finding itself too weak to cover Antibes, has withdrawn the Garrison of that Town, which it is supposed will fall into General Brown's Hands as soon as he presents himself before it.

Hague, Dec. 20, N. S. His Royal Highness the Duke was last Saturday entertained at Dinner by Count Chavanne, his Sardinian Majesty's Minister here. On Sunday, by Count Welden, one of the Deputies of Guelderland, and formerly Ambassador of the Republick in England. Yesterday, by Count Harrach, the Imperial
