Nuremberg, Febr. 1. The States of France have been assembled here, the Sieur de Feilhan being on the part of the Emperor, who proposed to the States, that for their own security, and that of the whole Empire, they should bring their Troops together as soon as possible, which the States readily agreed to.

From Spain they was adviced, That the Protestant Cantons were to meet the next month in Madrid, to consult concerning the Reduction of that Kingdom by the Spanish Ambassador for Andalusia, the Marche Comte, &c. which the Protestant Cantons have already consented: The French Ambassador at the same time endeavors on the contrary side, to persuade them now to accept of a Peace, which he thinks these
