WH E R E A S since the Publication of his Majesty's Order in Council of the 14th of December last, For prohibiting the Removal of any of the Horned Cattle for the Space of Two Months, Diverse Informations have been received, whereby it appears, that great Inconveniencies are likely to happen from the said Prohibition to the Cities of London and Westminster, and many other Parts of the Kingdom; which having been this Day taken into Consideration — His Majesty doth therefore order, by and with the Advice of his Privy Council, that the said Order in Council of the 14th of December last, be, and it is hereby Vacated and Repealed; and that the Order of Council of the 22d of March 1747, and all the Rules and Regulations therein contained, shall be observed, kept, and performed in every Part thereof, until further Order.

Copy of a Letter from Thomas Curtis, Esq; Mayor of Bristol, to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle. Bristol, January 8, 1749.

My Lord,

I was greatly surpris'd to hear, by a Letter which I this Day received from Mr. Justice Foster, that it had been inserted in the London Gazetteer of Saturday last, that there was certain Advice by Letters from this Place, that the Plague was broke out on board a Ship in King-road lately arrived from Smyrna, several of the People having died within these few Days. On Receipt of this Letter, I immediately applied to the Collector of the Customs here, who directly ordered the proper Officers to make diligent Search and Inquiry, whether any Distemper is, or lately had been, on board any Ship arrived at this Port; and those Officers have certified under their Hands, that no Sickness whatsoever has been on board any such Ships.
