The last Advices from Poland are very favourable, the Tribunal of Petrikaw continuing its Assembly with all the Success that can be desired; and the Frontiers of that Kingdom enjoying a perfect Tranquillity, by the efficacious Measures which have been taken to stop the Ravages and Cruelties committed by the Heyducks.

Frankfort, Jan. 29. It is assured that a Project is on Foot for adjusting the Differences between the Magistrates of this City and the Protestants settled here, in Relation to the Request made by the latter for Liberty to build a Church within the Walls of this City, by which the Protestants will have Leave to build one in the Suburbs; to which Project it is said the Protestants have already given their Consent.
