St. James's, October 28.

THIS Day about One o'Clock his Majesty and the Royal Family came from Kensington to reside here during the Winter.

Dublin, October 10.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,
The humble Address of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, in Parliament assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, in Parliament assembled, humbly beg Leave to renew our solemn Assurances of the most zealous and affectionate Attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person and Government.

We must ever be deeply affected at any melancholy Event in your Majesty's Royal Family, and embrace this first Opportunity to present our sincere Condolence on the great Loss lately sustained by these Nations.

Your Majesty, upon that solemn Occasion of publick Grief, engaged in all the Offices of paternal Affection and Tenderness, (to which alone few Minds could have been equal) even then made the future Safety of your People the principal, the immediate Object of your Concern.

It is your Majesty's Glory not only to have made the Laws the Standard of your Government, and the Ease and Happiness of your Subjects the constant Object of your Attention through the whole Course of your auspicious Reign, but to have generously extended your Royal Care to the Preservation of our happy Constitution to succeeding Ages.

We want Words sufficiently to express the Reverence and Gratitude, with which our Hearts are filled, when we consider the Greatness and the Goodness of your Majesty's Mind.

May the Divine Providence long bless us with the Continuance of your precious Life, and perpetuate the Crown of these Realms in your Majesty's Illustrious House, for the Security and Happiness of our latest Posterity.

We esteem it a particular Mark of your Majesty's Goodness, that you have been pleased, a second Time, to commit the Government of Ireland to his Grace the Duke of Dorset, whose Zeal for your Majesty's Service, and the Prosperity of this Kingdom, we still happily experience in the beneficial Effects of his Grace's former Administration.

A just Regard to the Welfare of our Country must make us ever solicitous for the Security and Advancement of the Protestant Interest and the Trade of this Kingdom. We shall therefore be particularly attentive to the Support of the Charter-Schools, and the Improvement of our Linen Manufactures; and beg Leave to assure your Majesty, that we will chearfully concur in every Measure which may promote the publick Good, and contribute to the Ease, Stability and Honour of your Majesty's Reign.

Hen. Baker Sterne, Cler. Parliamentor.

The Lord Lieutenant's Answer.

My Lords,

I Will forthwith transmit this Dutiful and Affectionate Address to be laid before his Majesty.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeses in Parliament assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Ireland in Parliament assembled, beg Leave to present your Majesty our unfeigned Thanks for those Gracious Intentions for the Advancement of our Happiness, of which your Majesty hath given us a most signal Instance, by again delegating your Royal Authority to his Grace the Duke of Dorset, whose former Administration was one continued Proof of his Grace's sincere Zeal for your Majesty's Service, and the Prosperity of this Kingdom.

Permit us, Sir, with all Humility, to condole with your Majesty on the great Publick Loss lately sustained by these Nations, and to express our Reverence and Admiration of that heroic Constancy of Mind, which not only supported your Majesty under the Pressure of so heavy an Affliction, but enabled you to exert your Royal Vigilance, to guard your faithful Subjects, (as far as human Prudence can guard them) from the dangerous Consequences which might otherwise arise from any fatal Event.

Truly sensible of the unparalleled Justice and Benignity of your Majesty's auspicious Reign, we cannot, without the deepest Anguish, look forward to that Period which your Majesty contemplated with the greatest Fortitude and Serenity; and we ardently wish, that that most salutary Law, which with the warmest Sentiments of Gratitude, we ascribe to your Majesty's consummate Wisdom, may, by the Goodness of Divine Providence, become unnecessary, by lengthening that precious Life, upon the Continuance of which, the Felicity of all your Subjects so much depends.

We assure your Majesty, that we will, with the greatest Chearfulness and Unanimity, grant the usual Supplies; and as we have at all Times abundantly experienced your Majesty's paternal Goodness, so we acknowledge with particular Satisfaction and Thankfulness, your Majesty's gracious Attention to our Ease and Happiness, in recommending to us the Application of the Money, now remaining in the Treasury, (so far far as may be consistent with the publick Service) toward the further Reduction of the National Debt.

We should be wanting to ourselves, if we at any Time neglected those great Objects, the Security of the Protestant Interest in this Kingdom, and the Advancement of our Trade, and shall take into particular Consideration, what farther Measures may be necessary for the Support of the Protestant Charter Schools, and the Improvement of our Linen and Hempen Manufactures, and are assured by long and happy Experience, that we can no Way so acceptably recommend ourselves to the Continuance of your Majesty's Royal Favour and Protection, as by promoting in the most effectual Manner the publick Good.

E. Sterling,
H. Alcock, } Cler. Dom. Com.

The Lord Lieutenant's Answer.

I Will take the first Opportunity to transmit this Dutiful and Loyal Address to be laid before his Majesty.

To his Grace Lionel Duke of Dorset, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governour of Ireland.

The humble Address of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament assembled.

May it please your Grace,

WE the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament assembled, beg Leave to return your Grace our most humble Thanks for your excellent Speech from the Throne.

We look upon it as a fresh and signal Instance of his Majesty's paternal Regard for our Happiness, that he has again placed your Grace in the high Station, which you formerly fill'd with such distinguish'd Honour to yourself, and Advantage to this Kingdom: And we most gratefully acknowledge the happy Effects of those faithful Representations, which your Grace has, upon all Occasions, made to his Majesty, of our dutiful and affectionate Attachment to his Royal Person and Government.

The sincere Zeal for his Majesty's Service, and for our Prosperity, which we have ever experienced to be your Grace's governing Principle, lays us under the strongest Obligations of promoting with Temper and Unanimity, whatever tends to the publick Welfare, and the Ease of your Grace's Administration.

His Majesty's faithful Subjects of Ireland are too zealous for the Preservation of the Crown in his illustrious House, not to have been deeply affected by the late publick Loss. And the Greatness and the Goodness of his Majesty's Mind, in immediately proposing those salutary Provisions, which have since passed into a Law, fill us with the warmest Sentiments of Reverence and Gratitude. But tho' we are secured, as far as human Wisdom can reach, against the Consequences of any fatal Event, yet we must offer up our sincerest Prayers for the Continuance of the sacred Life of a Sovereign, who is not more watchful to prevent, than he has been powerful to defend us against every Danger.

We are justly sensible of your Grace's Goodness in recommending the Security of the Protestant Interest and the Advancement of our Trade, as the two great Objects which demand our constant and most serious Attention. The Protestant Schools, which were establish'd by a Charter obtain'd during your Grace's former Government, and the Linen Manufactures, have already contributed greatly toward the Attainment of those important Ends; and we will take into our earliest Deliberations, whatever may be necessary for their further Support and Encouragement.

Experience gives us the fullest Confidence in your Grace: And we rest assured, that nothing will be wanting that may effectuate his Majesty's gracious Intentions, to make his Subjects of Ireland happy, as we shall always continue most dutiful and loyal.

Hen. Baker Sterne, Cler. Parliamentor.

The Lord Lieutenant's Answer.

My Lords,

I Return your Lordships Thanks for this affectionate Address, and for the very obliging Manner in which you express your Satisfaction on my Return to this Government. I am convinced, the most effectual Way of preserving your good Opinion, is, by continuing to exert my utmost Endeavours in promoting his Majesty's Service, and the Prosperity of this Kingdom.

To his Grace Lionel Duke of Dorset, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governour of Ireland.

The humble Address of the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeses, in Parliament assembled.

May it please your Grace,

WE his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Ireland in Parliament assembled, return your Grace our most humble Thanks for your excellent Speech from the Throne, and beg Leave at the same Time, to express our sincerest Congratulations on your Grace's happy Return to the Government of this Kingdom.

We consider it as a very peculiar Instance of his Majesty's Goodness to his Subjects of Ireland, that he hath again committed them to your Grace's Care; your former Administration must be gratefully remembred, as the Effects of it are still most sensibly felt by us; but the Concern, that your Grace has since shewn for the Welfare of this Kingdom, and the effectual Support you have given to our Interests, in the several Stations you have so eminently filled, must now create in us a Satisfaction, which Words cannot sufficiently express.

We beg Leave to assure your Grace, that we will readily and chearfully grant such Supplies, as shall be necessary for the Support of his Majesty's Government. His Majesty's gracious Recommendation, that a Part of the Money now in the Treasury, should be applied towards the Reduction of the National Debt, is a convincing Proof (if any were yet wanting) that his Majesty is ever attentive to the Ease and Happiness of his People, and that your Grace hath made them the constant Objects of your Consideration.

Your Grace hath been pleased to point out to us, the Security of the Protestant Interest, and the extending our Trade and Manufactures, as important Objects of our Deliberations. These we shall steadily pursue with the utmost Temper and Unanimity.

Animated as we are, with the strongest Sense of Duty and Loyalty to the best of Kings, and possessed with the fullest Confidence of your Grace's Zeal for his Service, and of your distinguished good Disposition towards us, we shall shall not fail to contribute every Thing in our Power, to make your Administration as easy and as honourable to your Grace, as we are assured, it will prove Happy and Advantageous to the Publick.

E. Sterling, } Cler. Dom. Com.
H. Alcock, }

The Lord Lieutenant's Answer.

I Am extremely obliged to the House of Commons for this very kind Address. This publick Mark of your Satisfaction, on my Return to this Kingdom, gives me the greatest Pleasure, and I shall take every Opportunity of convincing you, that I have nothing so much at Heart, as the true Interest of Ireland.

LES MOEURS; or, MANNERS.

Accurately Translated from the French. Wherein the Principles of Morality, or Social Duties, viz. Piety, Wisdom, Prudence, Fortitude, Justice, Temperance, Love, Friendship, Humanity, &c. &c. are described in all their Branches; the Obligations of them shown to consist in our Nature, and the Enlargement of them strongly enforced. Here Parents are taught, that, giving Birth to a Child, scarcely entitles them to that honourable Name, without a strict Discharge of Parental Duties; the Friend will find, there are a Thousand other Decorums, besides the doing of a Favour, to entitle him to the tender Name of Friend; and the Good-natur'd Man will find, he ought to extend that Quality beyond the Bounds of his own Neighbourhood or Party.

The Whole wrote in a Manner entirely New and Entertaining, and enliven'd with real Characters, drawn from Life, and fitted to instill the Principles of all social Virtues into tender Minds.
