Madrid, Aug. 15.

THe 2 instant arrived here an Express from Naples to give her Majesty an account of the disorders at Messina. There has been of late no Action in Catalonia; as well the French as our Troops having fortified themselves in their several Camps that they cannot attempt any thing on the one side or the other. The 8 instant arrived here 300 Horse from Andalusia who are to march for Catalonia. The Prince of Montesarohio and Don Beltran de Guevarra are gone hence for Barcelona to take possession of their respective Commands, the one as General of the Sicilian; and the other of the Neapolitan Galley. From Cadix of the 5 instant they write that the General of the Royal Armada, Don Melchor de Cueva, was embarked on the Capitana in order to sail with such ships as he had with him to join with the rest of the Armada at Barcelona.

Frankfort, August 22. On Sunday last the young Count Souches passed through this place by Post for Vienna. The Troops of the Duke of Lunenburg are at present within two Leagues from this City, and this day the Duke of Holslein Ploen their Velt Marshal General, and Monsieur de Chevel Lieutenant General arrived here; to morrow it is said these Troops are to pass through this place, in order to their conjunction with the Duke of Bourneville, who so soon as they arrive will decamp, and march towards Monsieur de Turenne.

Coblentz, Aug. 20. The Prince of Baden being off his march with 5000 men to join with the other Confederate Troops Commanded by the Duke of Bourneville hath received orders from the Emperor to return forthwith to the Imperial Army, but the Elector of Treves and the Baron d'Issola using great instances with the said Marquess to continue his march, notwithstanding the said Orders to the Palatinate, he hath so far yielded to them; as to remain with his Troops in the Territory of the Prince of Hesse Rhinefeld, till the return of the Courier which he has on this subject dispatched to Vienna. From Strasburg they write that Monsieur de Turenne continues between Landau and Weissenburg, and that he was about fortifying Billecum; and from Spire we hear, that Monsieur de Turenne had sent part of his Troops towards the Saar. We have advice that Yesterday the Lunenburg Troops encamped between Giessen and Wezlar, and that to morrow they are expected to arrive in the Neighborhood of Frankfort. The Duke of Bourneville lies still between the Rhine and the Main, having his Quarters from Geram to Benzheim.

Ditto, Aug. 23. Our Letters from Philipsburg tell us, that the Troops which it was thought Monsieur de Turenne had sent into Lorraine, were marched part of them towards Brisac, and the others towards Savonne, to fetch from the first place 12 great pieces of Canon, and from the latter a great many Wagons with Ammunition and other Military Provisions, and to convoy them to Monsieur de Turenne's Army, which is at present encamped between Landau and Weissen-burg on a little River called Queich where Monsieur de Turenne is resolved to fortify his Camp, and in the mean time causes great Provision to be made of all things necessary for the subsistence of his Troops. The Confederate Troops under the Command of the Duke of Bourneville continue in their former quarters.

Cologne, Aug. 24. From Lipsstadt they write; that on Saturday last the Elector of Brandenburg intended to hold a general Rendezvous of his Forces near Mansfeldt, and the Monday following to decamp and begin his march. The Baron d'Issola is at present at Frankfort from whence he intends to pass to Vienna.

From the Camp before Grave, Aug. 22. The 18 instant at night the Enemy made a Salley, at first with a few men only, but still reinforcing them as they were engaged, they had at last out 300 men, between whom and our Troops Commanded by Colonel Kloster, for the Enemy attacked his Post, there was a sharp dispute till morning, many men having been killed on both sides, at last the French were forced to retreat to the Town again, and about 8 a clock both parties agreed to a cessation for the burying the dead; It is said that Monsieur Pas laic Governor of Naerden for the French was killed in this Encounter; in the mean time as well we as the besieged employ the Canon against each other without any intermission; and we now begin to make use of our Granadoes, &c. Our Trenches are advanced to the Palisadoes of the Enemies outworks.

Hague, Aug. 24. The last Letters we received from Flanders left the Confederate Armies encamped near St. Gislain; they tell us that they had great hopes of the speedy recovery of Count Waldeck, as well as of several other Persons of quality who were wounded in the late Fight, a particular account of which the States received this day in a Letter from the Prince of Orange, but is no more than what you have already heard. The last week the Ratifications of the Treaties concluded between this State and the King of Denmark, as likewise with the Elector of Brandenburg and Dukes of Lunenburg were interchanged. From the Palatinate our Letters tell us, that Monsieur de Turenne continues near Landau, having sent several Troops towards the Saar, to pass on from thence into Lorraine; and some Letters say that Monsieur de Turenne will follow them in Person, leaving only a flying Army of 5 or 6000 men under the Command of the Marquess of Vaubrun between Philipsburg and Landau: The Duke of Bourneville keeps still his Quarters not far from Gustavusburg between the Mayn and the Rhine, where he expects the arrival of the Prince of Baden with 5000 men, as likewise the Lunenburg Troops which are 10000 men. From Frankfort they write that the Son of Count Souches General of the Imperial Army was passed through this place in great haste for Vienna, being sent by his Father to give the Emperor an account of the late Fight. The Siege of Grave advances still very slowly, though it is said that this evening the States have by an Express received advice from Monsieur Rabenhaupt, that
