Manner, as to thew, at the fame I line, the strictest Regard to the Liberties of the People.

We should be wanting in Gratitude and a just Considence in your Grace, if we could doubt of your representing our Duty and Affections to His-Majesty in the truest and most favourable Light: And we should be wanting to ourselves, and to our Country, did we not earnestly wish, that your Grace may long continue to preside over us. We beg Leave to assure your Grace, that we shall be always ready to contribute every Thing in our Power to your Ease and Honour, and to the Support of your Government, being firmly persuaded, that your Grace's many per-Sonal Virtues, and the real Benefits of your Administration will be so sensibly felt, and make so deep and so lasting an Impression, that your Grace cannot fail to be possessed of the univerfal Affections and Esteem of all His Majesty's faithful Subjects in this Kingdom.

Hen. Baken Sterne, Cler' Parliamentor. The Lord Lieutenant's Answer.

My Lords,

TReturn your Lordships my sincere Thanks for this very obliging and affectionate Address. The Approbation, which you express of my Conduct, gives me the highest Satisfaction. I shall endeavour to preserve your good Opinion and Esteem, by making the true Interest of this Country the chief Object of my Administration. I shall with Pleasure represent to His Majesty, that your Duty and Loyalty deserve the Continuance of His Majesty's Favour and Protection.

To his Grace Lionel Duke of Dorset, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland.

The humble Address of the Knights, Citizens, and Burgesses in Parliament assembled.

May it please your Grace,

WE his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Ireland in Parliament assembled, beg Leave to return your Grace the Thanks of this House for your wise and prudent Administration, and for your constant Care for the Welfare and Prosperity of

The Chearfulness and Unanimity with which the Supplies demanded from the Throne have been granted this Session of Parliament, not only demonstrate the Duty and Loyalty of the House of Commons to his Majesty, and their firm Attachment to his Government and the true Interest of their Country, but clearly shew their Respect to your Grace's Person, and their Inclination to make your Administration easy and honourable. Your Grace—is from long Experience fo-well acquainted, with, the, truly loyal Sentiments of his Majesty's faithful Commons, that when we consider your Grace's Candour, and the high Trust yested in you, we cannot entertain the least Doubt but that your Grace will, upon your Return into the Royal Presence, reprefent his Majesty's Protestant Subjects of this Kingdom as inviolably and unalterably attached to his Sacred Person, and the Interests of his most illustrious House, and that your Grace will assure his Majesty, as we are fully sensible of the Happiness we enjoy under his most auspicious Reign, that we shall upon all Occafions endeavour to deserve the Continuance of his Royal Fayour and Protection.

Henry Alcock, Cler, Dom. Com.
