whatever it is it not suddainly put in execution the for fon that beliances apace, will in all probability frustrate it; It is very fad to hear the relations of people that come from Flanders of the miserable condition of those Countries, which have this Summer been almost equally destroyed by their Friends and Enemies, and that which adds to the trouble of those people, is the apprehension they not without reason have, that the Confederates will take their Winter Quarters amongst them, though some think it is a thing imposfible; and that those Countries will not be able to af-ford wherewithill for so many borces to subsist. The Counters of Waldock that went to visit her Husband at Mone is returned hither, he being so well recovered of his Wounds that he is returned to the Army. We are rold that the Sieur Erhenstein Ambassador here from the Crown of smeden, hath lately received a Letter from Monlieur de Pompone Secretary of State to the Most Christian King, concerning a Peace, which many people are of opinion will after all be con-fluded this Winter. We have News here that the faid most Christian King is about drawing his Forces out of his Garrisons in the Franche Comre having desired the Swiffers to take upon them the protection of that Province, but this needs a confirmation. It is confidently faid that the French have quitted Treves, and we expect to hear some thing of moment from the Palatinete, our last Letters having lest the Duke of Bournonville on his march towards Lorraine.

Paris, Sept. 5. The Nobility of the Several Pro-Tiffies begin now to march towards Chalons, where is appointed their Rendezvous in order to their going from thence to join with his Majesties Army according to his Majesties Letters for the convoking the Ban. Of which

Letters here follows the chief Substance.

D. V. I. S. By the Grace of God King of France and Waparies. To all to whom thele prefetts shall come, Cheering. The happy fuccess which our Armes have had against the States General of the United Provinces, our declared Enethies, having given jealouffe to the Catholick King, he had no not into the company himself in this Power, though he had no mes, having given jealoune to the Cataoliek Aing, he hath mot only affilted them with all his Power, though he had not any intetell to engage himself in this Wart, but also folicited the Empire to take part with him, and after having engaged them therein, and allied himself with them and the faid States General; he declared open Wart against us, in hope without alouds, that having broke the Treaties of Peace between France and Spins, and at the same time railed against us such powerful Enemies, he should stop the progress of our Armes against the said States General, and even draw great advantages from this Warr. And though we have hitherto with our own Forces, affisted by the Divine Power, not only rediffed their Attempts, and stassistated the Enterprises which they and those allied with them have endeavored to make against our State, but also gained considerable Victories over them, as well by the defeat of some of their Troops, as the taking of several places, and the Conquest. of one entire Province, by means of which, it they could have preserved it they might have done as more damage: Yet we though so glorious Success joyned to the Justice of our Cause might well make its hope to continue to result, so many forces united together, being informed that several Princes of the Empire, under presence-of-the liberty thereof and the quier of Germany, to the prejudice of the Treaty of Westphan, and of those we have made with them in particular are endeavoring to raise have made with them in particular are endeavoring to raile Troops to joyn with the Emperors, and to fall with them into our Donitions; We have found our felves obliged to have our Dominions; We have found our selves obliged to have recourse to the most sub-lifeans to oppose them; and whereas the best and most ready which we can find in so pressing an occasion, is to employ our Nobility. We have resilved to convoke them in our Province of In the form accustomed of Ban and Arrearban, being verily perswaded that as well in regard of the concerne they ought to have for the Glory of this Monarchy and the maintainance of our Authority as for their particular advances them will not be thority, as for their particular advantage, they will not be-have themselves with less. Zeal and Agestion for our service in this occasion, then hath beemshown for the service of the lateking our most Monored Lord and Father, and the kings our Predeceffors, who have been alwoyes in like occasions sail field by the Nobility, and then the Nobility of our Pro-vinces of Gnicare, Points, Aninx and Breegne have mani-fifted fince the beginning of this Campagne, to scene the Goales of the Livek Elect prifes of the Dutch Fleet.

bon thele and other reasons. We Command and expressly enjoyn all Mobles, Barons, Knights, Elquires, Vasials, and others holding Fiels of us, and subject to our Ban and Arrearban, that laying aside all excuse, on pain of confication of the faid Fiels, laying aside all excuse, on pain of conflication of the faid Fiets, they do put themselves in Armes, according as they are obliged to do so the Service, and that they hold themselves ready at the day and place by the Governor and Lieutenant General of our faid Province to be appointed in order to their marching under such chief Commander as shall be Chasen among them in the accustomed manner, to joyn with the body of our Troops Commanded by the Marquess de Richtsort on the Messe, to serve as well under him as under other our Generals during the space of two months to be recknoed from the day of their arrival, and afterwards according to the orders they shall receive from as to return to their several homes. And because it is likely, that our Enemits envisus of sur spathey shall receive from as to return to their several homes. And because it is likely, that our Enemits envious of our property, and seeing themselves in great numbers, they may with hopes to repair their losses and to draw great advantages from their union, prolong the Watr, we defining to spare our Nobisity, Will, that only one half of these that are subject to the Ban shall now march and joyn our said Treors, add that the other half of our said Nobility prepare themselves to march the next Campagne upon the first orders they shall receive from us. And all our Officers whom it may concern are to see our plassive here; a said one to fee our pleafure herei . executed, &c.

Whitehall, Septemb. I. This day their Mojesties and the whole Court returned hither from WinHor; as their Royal Highnesses did yesterday; and this day his Royal Highness, accompanied by his Grace the Duke of Monmouth, was pleased to honor the Artillery Company of London, as being their Captain, with his prefence at Merc'ant Tailors Hall, where he was treated with a noble Linner.
