London, Octob. 29.

THis day (according to the usual Custom) Sir Robert Viner Knight and Baronet, Lord Mayor Elect, accompanied with the Aldermen and Sheriffs of the City, attended by the Masters Wardens, and Liveries of the several Companies in their respective Barges, adorned with Banners, Streamers, Colours, Escutcheons, and other Ornaments, went by Water to Westminster; and having there taken the accustomed Oath, returned again to Pauls Wharf, and from thence passed through Cheapside to the Guildhall, with the usual Solemnity, which was this day very extraordinary in all its Circumstances; and particularly, through the brave appearance of the Company of Archers, to the Number of 350, armed with long Bows, and half Pikes, under the Command of Sir Robert Peyton Knight, their Captain. Their Majesties, accompanied with his Royal Highness, and attended by many of the principal of the Nobility, and other persons of Quality, having been pleased, according to the humble invitation of the City, to honour them with Their presence first at the Show in Cheapside (being placed in a Balcony under a Canopy of State, near the Standard) and afterwards at the Guildhall at Dinner, where the Entertainment was very noble and magnificent in all kinds, greatly to the satisfaction of Their Majesties, his Royal Highness, and all the Nobility, and other persons of Quality that were there present.

Vienna, Octob. 18. We have already told you of the Prince of Lobcowitz Secretary having been arrested by the Emperors order, not without some reflection on the Prince himself, who hath ever since endeavoured to justify himself to the Emperor. The 15 instant the Prince was present at a Council which was held at Court, for the treating of some publick matters onely. The 17 the Emperor appointed a private Council to be held, at which the Prince Lobcowitz prepared, as usually heretofore, to be present, and was ready to enter his Coach to go thither, when by the Chancellor of the Court he received the Emperors Command to forbear coming to Court, or to appear in his presence; which the next day was followed by a farther order from the Emperor, That the said Prince, should within three dayes leave Vienna, and retire to his Castle of Randitz in Bohemia, and continue there, till his Imperial Majesties farther pleasure should be known. On Monday last, the Count Oxensterno, Ambassador Extraordinary of Sweden, made his publick Entry with the usual Solemnity. It is said, the Emperor has appointed Commissioners to treat with his Excellency upon the Propositions he comes to make on the part of the Crown of Sweden, in order to a general Peace.

Francfort, Octob. 25. Our last Letters from Vienna, bearing date the twenty first instant, give us an account of the disgrace of Prince Lobcowitz Great Chamberlain, and first Minister to the Emperor, That he hath been put out of all his places, and banished to his house in Bohemia, whither he departed the twentieth, under a Guard of 200 Horse. That Process is framing against him, and that his place of Great Chamberlain hath been given to the Count of Pitting. The Confederate Army about Strasburgh, does not attempt any thing against the French, as is said, through the discord and irresolution of the Generals. From the Court of Bavaria at Munic, we have advice, That the Count de Rechberg hath been declared Great Master of his Electoral Highness's House, in the place of Prince Herman of Furstenbergh lately deceased. We are told, That his said Electoral Highness has offered the Emperor 6000 Men, to be employed against the Rebels of Hungary.

Strasburgh, Octob. 26. Monsieur de Turenne continues camped in his advantageous Post about a League from Saverne, having the little River Sorre before him; and the Confederates, under the Conduct of the Elector of Brandenburg, have their Camp about a League from him. Yesterday the small Castle of Waslenheim, after having for three dayes been defended by the French that were in it, surrendered. The same day a Council of War was held in the Confederates Camp, where, as the report goes here, it hath been resolved, That they should attack Haguenaw, and some will needs have the place to be already invested. In the mean time the Confederates begin to have great want of Provisions; which cannot be brought in in quantities sufficient to supply so great a body of Men; as they are now together; so that they will be necessitated to come to some speedy action, or else separate.

Ditto, Octob. 29. The News we had here of the Confederates attacking Haguenaw, in the which the French have all their Stores and Provisions, is so far from true, that we have certain advice, That the Confederates finding they cannot longer subsist in so great a body together, for want of Provisions, and other Necessaries; and that their Troops, by means hereof, begin through sickness, and other wayes, greatly to diminish: and on the other side, that Monsieur de Turenne had posted himself so advantageously, being environed with Mountains, Rivers, and Morasses, that they cannot come to attack him, they have resolved to separate, and to go into Winter-quarters in the Upper Alsatia and Sunigaw, and so to Quarter themselves about Brisac, as to keep that place blocked up all this Winter. The reason that is given here for their having quitted their design of attacking Haguenaw, is, That they understood that the French had destroyed all the Forage in all that Neighborhood, that their Troops would not have been able to subsist. The Duke of Lorraine is with his Troops about the Mountains of Vauge on the Frontiers of Lorraine, and, as is said here, has possessed himself of certain advantageous Posts and Passes.

Bernighen, Octob. 31. The Imperial Army is, at present, lodged in our Neighborhood. Yesterday General sporke had the Command of it, resigned to him by Count Souch's, who according to the Emperors order, is preparing for his return to Vienna. The Prince of Lorraine, and some other of the general Officers, who were at the Siege of Grave, are returned, and give account of the Surrender of that place. The Prince of Orange is likewise come from thence to his Troops, which are quartered not far from hence; all the discourse here in the Army is, that we shall not yet end the Campaigne.

Cologne.

Cologne, Novemb. 2. All our Letters from Germany speak of the disgrace and banishment of the Prince Lobowitz, Great Master of the Emperors Household, but do not, as yet, tell us particularly the cause thereof, farther, then that it is thought, that upon the examining the Papers of his Secretary, lately arrested, several matters are discovered, wherein he is concerned, which it is not yet thought fit to reveal.

Ghent, Octob. 30. It is now certainly said again, That the Count de Monterey will quit this Government, and return to Spain, for which he accordingly prepares himself; and our next Letters from Madrid, will, we suppose, tell us of the Nomination of his Successor. We have here the News of the Surrender of Grave, and that the Marquis de Chamilly the Governor, marched out with the French Garrison the 27 instant, with 22 pieces of Cannon, &c. towards Charleroy. The Imperialists continue still quartered between Diest and Ruremond; it is thought they will now suddenly pass the Meuse at Ruremond, and march to take their winter-quarters in the Electorate of Cologne, where they had them the last year.

Dixm, Novemb. 2. The Imperialists continue still in their Quarters about Diest, and General Souches keeps, as yet, the Command of the Army; he hath been lately somewhat indisposed at Louvain. The Spanish Troops are all gone to their Winter-quarters, and the general Officers are most of them at Brussels. The French continue to fortifie Marchienne upon the Scarp, having, at present there 800 Horse, and 1400 Foot; by means of which place, and St. Amand, they pretend to secure their Country from having contributions exacted from them this Winter by our Troops. Yesterday dyed at Brussels the onely Daughter and Heir of the Count de Monterey, after four dayes sickness, to the great affliction of their Excellencies, and the whole Court.

Brussels, Novemb. 6. On Friday last, arrived here Count Chavigniac, and Count Mansfield, from the Imperial Army, which they left quartered at Bernighen in the County of Liege, and the next day had a long Conference with his Excellency. We are told, that something will yet be done before Winter; and that the Prince of Orange, since the Surrender of Grave, has been to consult with General Spork (who has now the Command of the Imperial Army resigned to him by Count Souches, who is returning for Vienna) about it; and on Thursday last, his Highness returned from the said Imperial Army, for the Hague. The Generals of the Spanish Forces, are commanded by his Excellency to be all ready here in Town to execute such orders as they may receive from his Excellency. This day Count Chavigniac, and Count Mansfield, returned to the Imperial Army with a Convoy of 200 Horse, having with them 60000 Crowns due to the Army, which they received here; and this makes us the rather believe that something is yet to be done. Some Holland Troops that were left in this Province, are this day marched from Malines, to join the Imperial Army, which, it is said, will pass the Meuse about Hoy in the Country of Liege. We are told, that the Prince of Orange will send eight or ten thousand more, and that four or five thousand are to march from these Countries, to join the Imperialists, and make up 22000 Men together.

Hague, Novemb. 2. Our Letters from Grave of the 29 past, tell us, That the day before, about eight in the Morning, the French Governour and Garrison marched out from thence, consisting in 1600 Foot, and 400 Horse, taking with them four pieces of Cannon, drawn each with six Horses, and about 200 Wagons laden with their Baggage, with a Convoy of 4000 of our Troops towards Maseyck, to continue their march from thence to Charleroy; besides these, 800 sick Soldiers were shipped at Grave with 18 pieces of Cannon, to be conveyed, according to the Capitulation to Mastricht. There be several reports about the Artillery, Ammunition, and Provisions the French left behind them in the Town; some speak of 450 pieces of Cannon; others, of 305 onely (besides the Iron and French Cannon) of 13000 Sacks of Meal, 1200000 pound of Bisket 400000 pound, Bullets, and a considerable quantity of Arms, but this is not altogether certain. The Prince of Orange is gone to his Forces in Brabant.

Dixm, Novemb. 6. In a day or two the Prince of Orange is now expected here, being arrived from Brabant at his house near Amersford in the Province of Utrecht, where his Highness will divert himself a day or two with Hunting, and then return hither. The discourse here is, That his Highness will send several Troops, under the Command of Major General Faria, to join with some Spanish and the Imperial Forces, in order to the doing something yet before Winter; but many think the season too far advanced. Our Letters from Germany speak diversly; some say, That the Confederates are marched against Monsieur de Turenne to attack him in his camp; but others tell us, That they are about separating, and going into Winter quarters.

Paris, Novemb. 3. From Nancy of the thirtieth past they write, That the Castle of Wassemben, after having been for three dayes battered with the Confederates Cannon, was surrendered by the French, on condition to march out with their Arms, Baggage, &c. The twenty fifth, the Confederates were still encamped near the said Castle, and Monsieur de Turenne continued in his Quarters at Desvillers, about a League from Savornin, where he expected the thirtieth the arrival of Monsieur Genlis with twenty Squadrons of Horse under his Command; and the second of this Month, the Marquess of Montauban with 25 Squadrons more of Horse, and eight Battalions of Foot. Yesterday the Prince of Conde, and the Duke d'Enguien his Son arrived at St. Germain, and were received by his Majesty with great kindness, and expressions of esteem, for the considerable services performed by them this Campagne in Flanders. The advices we have from Roussillon, tell us for certain, that the Spaniards, under the Command of the Duke of St. Germain, have repassed the Straight of Pertuis, and are retreated into Catalonia; and that thereupon the Duke of Scomberg has likewise dispersed his Troops into Winter-quarters.
