Vienna, April 12. On Thursday last their Imperial Majesties arrived here, and assisted at a grand Council that was held at the Castle. After which they were present at the Marriage of the young Prince Aversperg with the Countess of Neuperg, the Ceremony being performed by Prince Trautson, our Archbishop: And at Night their Imperial Majesties returned to Schonbrun. The Ambassador, who is coming here to notify in Form the Advancement of Osman III. to the Ottoman Throne, is expected, towards the Middle of next Week, at Schwecchat, a Town about two Leagues from hence, where the Ministers from the Porte usually stop, in order to prepare for their publick Entry into this City. Count Kuffstein, who, under the Reign of the late Emperor Charles VI. and also at the Beginning of that of the present Emperor, had filled the Office of Vice-Chancellor of Austria, and Stadtholder of the said Province, and who at the Time of his being dismissed from those Employments, retired to his Estate, died a few Days ago. They are fitting up the Apartments of the Castle of Hetzendorff, for the Reception of the three Archduchesses, who are to spend great Part of the Summer there.

Madrid, April 14. The Court is to go to Aranjuez on Wednesday the 16th Instant. The Duke de la Mina, set out from hence some Days ago for his Government of Catalonia.

Leghorn, April 18. The Regency have ordered two of their Ships of War, now at Porto Faraio, to be fitted out immediately, in order to protect their Navigation against the Algerines, who already infest this Coast. For these several Days past, one Ship of 26 Guns, one Zebeck of 16, and one of 10, with Algerine Colours, have been cruising in Sight of this Place, where they have already taken three Neapolitan Vessels, one Genoese, and one Felucca belonging to Corsica, so that neither the Tuscan nor Dutch Ships dare put to Sea. Every Thing seems to be quiet in Corsica.
