Colin, August 27. The Army that is now assembling in the Neighbourhood of this Place, will, when compleat, be as formidable as any the Austrians have had for a long Time past. It is to consist of 19 Regiments of Foot, each of 4 Battalions, and 2 Companies of Grenadiers, 16 Regiments of Dragoons and Cuirassiers, and 4 Regiments of Hussars, besides 20,000 Croats and Esclavonians. Hague, Sept. 16. They write from Maestricht, that they had there, a few Days ago, a most violent Storm of Wind and Rain, which caused most of the neighbouring Rivers to overflow their Banks, the Waters of which came down with such Rapidity, as not only to carry off a great Number of Cattle, but likewise to destroy several Bridges, and greatly damaged many Houses and other Buildings in the adjacent Villages.
