From the Camp of Zudin, Nov. 10.

Upon Advice that the Enemy were entred into Winter Quarters, his Excellency Marshal Brown sent Capt. Raizenstein to General Haddik, who is between Toplitz and Peterswalde, with a Plan of a Line to be drawn upon the Frontiers of Saxony; and General Guasco, an Officer of Merit, and an excellent Engineer, was entrusted with the Execution of it.

The Marshal has given the Command of all the Posts on this Side of the Elbe to General Haddik, and of those of the other Side to General Maeguire. Besides all the Croats and Hussars, his Excellency has appointed a sufficient Number of Battalions, Companies of Grenadiers, German Horse, with Artillery proportionable, to cover the Frontiers, and to defend the Country from the Insults of the Enemy's Parties.

Since his Excellency has fixed the Winter Quarters for the Army, several Regiments desile off daily towards the Quarters assigned them, and in 15 Days all the Army will be in Winter Quarters.

The Head Quarters are established at Prague. The Garrison whereof is composed of the Regiment of Louis Wolfenbuttel, a Battalion of that of Wallis, and 22 Companies of Grenadiers that came from Italy.

Marshal Brown has consented to a Negotiation with Marshal Keith, General in Chief of the Prussian Army, for the Exchange of Prisoners. And as the Town of Carlstrad has been fixed on as most convenient for both Parties, and each Party having agreed to send thither a Lieutenant Colonel, a Captain, an Auditor, and a Commissary of War, Marshal Brown has already appointed Lieutenant Colonel Thurn, and Capt. Churfield, both of the Regiment of the Archduke Ferdinand's Cuirassiers, to negotiate on the Part of the Austrians. The Regiments of Schmertzing, Kalkreute, and Gelhai, Cuirassiers; and those of Nadassy, and Kaincki, Hussars, who all came from Hungary, are gone to Moravia, where they will remain till they receive further Orders. Count Sternberg, Minister Plenipotentiary of their Imperial Majesties at the Court of Dresden, has passed by this Place, with all his Family, on his Way to Vienna.
