Dresden, Aug. 31. On the 28th the Army which the King of Prussia brought out of Lusatia, came and encamped under the Walls of this Town, on the Right Side of the Elbe, near the Black and White Gates of the Town. His Majesty and Prince Henry lodged near the Black Gate, in a House belonging to a Valet de Chambre of Count Bruhl, the Prime Minister. Yesterday Afternoon his Majesty, at the Head of his Van Guard, consisting of eight Squadrons and six Batallions, passed over the River, and through this Town, followed by Prince Henry at the Head of the Infantry. The Van Guard encamped Yesterday Evening behind the Ooster Weyde, on the left Side of the Elbe, from whence both the King and Prince Henry marched this Morning, at Four o'Clock, taking the Road towards Nossen. This Morning likewise the whole Army, which laid before the New Town, is marched, and are passing through this Place, in order to encamp this Evening at the same Place which the King left this Morning. Prince Maurice's Corps came Yesterday from Sedlitz, and encamped in the Evening behind the Great Garden, close by the Heights of Kesseldorff, in order to join the King's Army. The Duke of Bevern, General Winterfeld, and his Royal Highness Prince Ferdinand of Prussia, remain in Lusatia with about 30000 Men, and are retired from Bernstadt to Gorlitz, in order to defend the Frontiers of Silesia on that Side: There is still a strong Prussian Garrison in Budissin, to consume the Provisions remaining there;
